IT NEVER GROWS OLD

THE STORY OF JOE YOUNGER OF ELMO IS TOLD AGAIN.

IS HEARD IN KANSAS CITY

The Fame of Elmo Spreads With Her Cement Walks, Electric Lights, Opera House and Fine Homes.

In Saturday's issue of the Kansas City Star appears an article about Joseph Younger, formerly of Elmo, but now in Canada, which is as follows:

Elmo, up in a lonely corner of Nodaway county, Missouri, is a village of 360 men, women and children, and the progressive statisticians have figured it out that Elmo, as it now stands, is from eight to sixteen miles ahead of the municipal procession. How Elmo happened to attain to its present eminence involves a story a whole lot longer than Main street, in Elmo, and Elmo's main street is somewhat of an extended thoroughfare.

To know the story of Elmo's rise you must know the story of Joseph Younger. Joseph Younger once was a farm hand. Later he was mayor. However, that last is not Mr. Younger's claim to distinction. It is nothing exceptional for a one-time farm hand to become mayor of a town of 360 population. But it isn't every farm hand who, with no larger field for his efforts than a town of 360 affords, can acquire debts amounting to $90,000, discharge those debts and then contract added obligations in the neighborhood of $50,000.

It has been said that there isn't a single hamlet in this United States that has anything on Elmo since Joe Younger became chairman of the town board, and it is likewise said that J. Rufus Wallingford of the kingdom of George Randolph Chester never had anything on one Mr. Younger.

Joe Younger, following an interesting career, is now in Alberta, Canada, where he went entirely of his own volition. He is working as a laborer on a railroad section for $2.50 a day, and in a letter sent back to Elmo he intimates that he hopes to retrieve his fortunes and make a brand new, brilliant start.

The town folks will tell you that Joe did some plain and fancy speculating, which certainly caused a stir in the commercial circles of that and nearby villages, and the result of these speculations is shown in some of the permanent things of which Elmo can now boast.

Naturally, if you were headed for a village of 360 population you wouldn't expect to see much, but you would miss your guess if you were headed for Elmo. Cement sidewalks constitute one of the finest and most progressive features of this now interesting little village, and it was the energy and push of Joe Younger that put them there. Soon after Joe was made chairman of the town board, a position that calls for the title of mayor, he agitated better walks and the town board was persuaded. The cement sidewalks followed.

Then came the electric light plant, which supplies current for the street lamps and for stores and residences. The light plant was a private corporation, engineered and successfully promoted by the mayor, and to quote the crowd at the postoffice, the light plant is a hum-dinger. It is now in possession of the International Harvester company, which supplied the machinery, and which had something coming to it when Mr. Younger departed for Canada.

Besides the cement walks and the electric lights, citizens can now point out the opera house, the garage, the $5,000 bungalow which Younger built for his own use, and numerous cement store buildings, which came of the inspiration and progressive spirit of the man who is now in Canada. In most villages the avenue called Main street usually is a joke. In Elmo, Main street is all that its name implies.

Younger's speculations extend as far as the Panhandle country in Texas, but as far as Elmo was concerned, most of the various enterprises there were fostered by what was known as the Elmo Improvement and Business company, an organization incorporated under the laws of Arizona, with a capital stock of $50,000, and with plans to do business on a reasonably large scale.

It was owing to the misunderstandings in regard to this company that Younger was prompted to write a letter of explanation, and in this letter, which he forwarded to the Maryville

Tribune, he tells briefly the story of his own romantic career, in a manner better, perhaps than those of his biographers.

Here is the way Younger tells his own story:

I came to Nodaway county twenty-nine years ago and landed in Burlington Junction with twenty-five cents in my pocket. I went to work for Major Hiles, about eight miles west of town, I think. I worked for Mr. Hiles two years and saved my money. I then decided to go to school. I attended school at Stanberry and got my first certificate while Prof. D. L. Chaney was county superintendent. I taught school for fourteen years, when I decided to go on the farm. I bought a farm, borrowing the money to make my payments. Land advanced very fast. During the seven years of my farm life I bought several farms that were run down. I improved these farms and sold them.

At the end of seven years of farm life I sold out and found that I had made $20,000, and by my promptness at the banks had gained wonderful credit. I made up my mind then to get rich, and went to Texas during the Panhandle boom. I bought land in Texas, also several farms in Nodaway and Gentry counties, and at the end of two years I found myself in debt $90,000.

This somewhat alarmed me, and I made up my mind to pay it off. So I told my creditors what I owned and what I was willing to do. They accepted my terms and I paid off $85,000 of this debt in ninety days. Six months after the settlement of these claims I found I had a wonderful credit left me. Then I made up my mind to organize the Elmo Improvement and Business company, and I borrowed $25,000 to do this.

Elmo never has pretended to know anything about Younger's speculations in Texas, except what he told them in a vague way. Elmo can't understand how Younger could have gone in debt to the extent of $90,000, for as far as Elmo was concerned, no one, with a single exception, ever got the better of Younger in a trade or a deal. Once, when a fellow came along selling county rights for a cement post, Younger is said to have taken a gambler's chance, and the chance cost him $1,200. This is the only known record of Younger's losing.

About six years ago, while he was still on the farm, Younger began erecting houses. After he erected a house he would sell it. He appeared prosperous and he undoubtedly had credit. Several bankers will tell you that.

Younger decided that cement buildings were what Elmo needed, so he began to put up this kind. His first big building—a brick—was the financier's most commendable effort, except the bungalow, a handsome residence, which stands out conspicuously on upper Main street, and which is said to have cost $5,000.

That Younger's magnetic personality got him loans goes without saying. One bank president went the limit with him as far as the bank was concerned, and then accompanied him to St. Joseph and enabled him to borrow $10,000 more. Another bank president in a nearby town even insisted on lending money to Younger after the bank directors believed it advisable not to do so. Not a few persons went on Younger's note in Elmo for amounts ranging from $250 to $750.

But there was a reason for Younger's credit. He was doing things. He was doing things of which Elmo never had dreamed. When the Elmo Improvement and Business association was organized Elmo was ready for it. He was elected to the town board and easily secured the election as chairman. There was a law which gave the town board the right to demand improved sidewalks. Younger decided that the property owners should build cement sidewalks in front of their property, and it was so ordered. And the cement sidewalks are there.

"We'll have these streets paved, too," Younger said to one of the town folks. "What Elmo needs is improvements. It's the thing that makes a town go."

The opera house is not an elaborate affair, but it was an event in Elmo. As much so as the electric light plant. Younger had erected two cement buildings on Main street. There was a vacant lot between them. The financier had planned it just that way. When he finished the two business houses the theater was half done. The outer walls of the two business houses made the inner walls for the theater. Younger built a front and back, installed a stage and four hundred dollars worth of scenery; sent to Chicago for five hundred opera chairs and the deed was done. Elmo was ready to book first class attractions.

Younger believed that the Elmo

NEW WABASH TRAIN

SHENANDOAH PAPER STATES SERVICE WILL BE GIVEN.

OMAHA TO KANSAS CITY

Plan Contemplates Joint Service on Wabash and Great Western With a Through Train.

In Friday's issue of the Shenandoah World appears the following article: Presidents of both the Wabash and Great Western railroads have given favorable decisions and appointed a time for a conference to make a definite decision and complete arrangements for a new through train from Omaha to Kansas City, at the instigation of the Shenandoah Commercial club through their attorney, E. R. Ferguson.

The new train as planned will leave Omaha at 11:30 p. m., passing through Shenandoah about 1 o'clock, and also Marville about an hour later. At Conception Junction it will be switched to the Great Western tracks and go direct to Kansas City, arriving at breakfast time. The opposite train will leave Kansas City about 7:30 a. m., arriving in Shenandoah about noon, and reaching Omaha early in the afternoon. Both trains would include Pullman, observation, dining and chair cars.

The immense and various advantages that this new train would bring are at once apparent.

The train leaving Omaha at night would make connections with nine big trunk lines that arrive in that city from 9:0 until 11:30. It would, among other things, give theater lovers all along the Wabash an opportunity to attend the Omaha attractions without losing a day from work, and save travelers to Kansas City and points south nearly a half day of time. An early afternoon train to Omaha would also be a welcome addition to our train service to a great many Shenandoah people.

There has been a report for the past year or so that the Wabash and the Great Western would add this service and it is probably only a short time until they will do so. Maryville is much interested in the proposed train service, as it will mean a great deal to this city.

Ed Ferritor, agent of the Wabash at this place, when seen today, said that while he had heard nothing of the new service, still he expected that it would be an assured fact in the next few months, as there has been talk of it for some time.

DEATH OF ED ALDEN.

Edwin F. Alden of Conception Junction died at his home Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, after a week's illness of paralysis. He was suddenly stricken with paralysis last Sunday evening, after having taken a walk with his daughter and other friends, and his condition remained the same until Sunday, when he passed away.

1000 WILL CONTEST

GREAT INTEREST AMONG BOYS AND GIRLS OF COUNTY.

TEACHERS TO MEET ALSO

Dr. Suzzalo Can't Come But Other Big Speakers Have Been Provided—Fine Program Assured.

At the Teachers' association meeting of Nodaway, Holt, Atchison, Andrew, Gentry and Worth counties, to be held in Maryville at the Normal auditorium, November 7, 8 and 9, Dr. Frank McMurray of the Columbia university of New York will be one of the principal speakers.

Dr. Henry Suzzalo of Columbia university, who was selected as one of the speakers for the meeting, sent word to Mr. Oakerson that he would be unable to come. Then Prof. Oakerson got busy and secured Dr. McMurray, who is one of the biggest educators in the country. He is the author of several educational and reading circle books. Dr. McMurray is to give his address at Saturday's meeting of the association.

Another prominent speaker on the program will be Dr. H. E. Pearce of Kansas City, who is a member of the state board of health, and also a lecturer. Dr. Pearce will talk before the teachers on "Health and Sanitation and Ventilation." His address will be given on the first day of the meeting, or on Thursday.

At the teachers' meeting a corn contest and a domestic science contest will be held, and exhibits of corn, and of cakes, bread, garments and other articles will be on display. Over 400 boys have enrolled for the corn growing contest and 650 girls for the domestic science contest. All these young people are from Nodaway county.

A lecture on corn will be given to the boys in this contest by Prof. John E. Cameron of the Normal, and this will be given on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock, November 9. On Friday afternoon a lecture on home economics will be given to the girls in the domestic science contest under the direction of Miss Hettie Anthony of the domestic science department of the Normal.

The Teachers' association will be one of the biggest events in Maryville. It is expected that there will be from 600 to 800 teachers present. The program for the meeting will be announced in a few days.

CORN CROP REPORT IS GOOD.

The Crops Largest Since 1896, and Corn Will Average 33 Bushels Over the State.

The following report showing Missouri crop conditions for the month of September was issued Saturday from the office of T. C. Wilson, secretary of the Missouri state board of agriculture:

Corn—The condition of corn, for the state, is practically the same as one month ago, being $6.4. One month ago it was $6.8. The five-year average for the end of September is 77.1. This is the highest since 1906. By sections, present corn condition shows: Northwest, 95; northwest, 92; central, 91; southwest, 73; southeast, 81. The quality of the new crop is much above the average, being 87.4. There is practically no complaint of soft or wormy corn. It is not thought that the first frost caused any damage of consequence, and it is the opinion of correspondents that 80 per cent of the crop is safe from further frost. A preliminary estimate as to the yield—and it can in no sense be regarded as official or final, representing only a general judgment which comes from looking over the field and which may be radically changed when the crop is harvested—places it at 33 bushels per acre. The large number of stalks bearing two ears is noticeable, while there are but very few if any barren stalks. The probable selling price for corn as given by correspondents, averages 51 cents per bushel, with a few reporting as low as 35 cents. The surplus for shipment is estimated at 15 per cent, but this will be almost entirely between counties and feeding centers within the state. The part of the crop cut is placed at 34 per cent; last year, 54 per cent. A considerable part of the crop goes into silos. However, this will not exceed 5 per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. James Huff of Wilcox were shopping in the city Monday.

Thomas McGarry of near Clyde was a city visitor Monday.

OLD RESIDENT DEAD.

J. E. Alexander of Pickering Passed Away Sunday Afternoon.

James E. Alexander, Sr., of Pickering, a resident of Nodaway county since 1856, died at home Sunday evening at 5 o'clock after a long illness.

The funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, and will be conducted at the Christian church in that town by Rev. F. M. Lindemeyer, the pastor. Burial in White Oak cemetery at Pickering.

Mr. Alexander was one of the best all-round citizens Nodaway county ever had. He was born near Belleville, St. Clair county, Ill., February 31, 1834. When he was 16 years old he went with his parents to Centerville, Ia., where he hired out as a farm hand at $9 a month, turning over his wages to his mother until he was 21 years old. He started out for himself then, his capital amounting to one yoke of oxen.

In 1855 he married Miss Maria Hendre of near Centerville. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander came to Nodaway county in 1856 with $300, and secured land on the Platte river in Independence township, at $1.25 an acre. They remained there until 1875, when they moved to Maryville to educate their only daughter, Mary, who is Mrs. James L. Neal of Pickering.

He later owned several other farms near Pickering, and was always a prosperous man, and he had been a member of the Christian church for more than forty years.

TALK OF CONCRETE BRIDGES

For Polk Township, and Plans Will Be Made to Bring Up the Matter Soon.

At the meeting of the Nodaway county agricultural and live stock board of directors Saturday afternoon in County Superintendent W. M. Oakerson's office it was decided to find out the cost of building concrete bridges in Polk township, and to submit a bond issue to the people of this township when the cost of building these bridges is found. The board will send for Curtis Hill, state highway engineer, to come to this township and go over the bridges and give an estimate of what it would cost for this improvement.

It is hoped that this board will push this matter, as it would mean a great deal for Polk.

The directors at their meeting also decided to begin work on the farmers' short course, and Secretary Paul Sisson was instructed to write to the university authorities and arrange for a time and meeting and the lectures to be given at this course. The short course held in Maryville last year was a great success, and the one this year will be bigger and greater.

The board members present at the meeting Saturday was J. F. Roelofson, F. P. Robinson, W. O. Garrett, W. M. Oakerson, F. C. Conrad, Lawrence Ogden and Paul Sisson.

HORSE DISEASE STILL HERE.

I. W. Nixon Lost Good Work Horse, as Did Also Miles Nicholas.

It seems that the horse disease is still in Nodaway county, as I. W. Nixon of this city reported Monday that he lost a good work horse Saturday from the strange disease that has been in Nodaway county. M. A. Nicholas is also another one that has lost two horses within the past few days. There are a few other cases of horse sickness over the county.

Preventive Medicine.

Typhoid fever is an infectious disease caused by the typhoid bacillus which, entering the body in food stuff, passes through the stomach into the intestines. Here it grows and, when an opportunity presents itself, passes through the intestinal wall into the blood stream by which it is carried to all parts of the body. In this way, the entire body of the typhoid patient is teeming with typhoid germs. All of the excreta, such as saliva, vomitus, urine, and feces contain typhoid germs.

This infected excreta is the means for carrying the typhoid germs from the patient to the outside world. In the excreta typhoid germs live from a few days to several months. Freezing retards their growth but does not kill them. Sunlight kills the germ only when the germs are directly exposed to the light. In the dried excreta, germs may live for from one to two months. Owing to the resistance of germs in excreta to cold and dryness, the excreta becomes a menace to the family of the patient, to the neighbors, and to the community.

Address questions on prevention of diseases to Preventive Medicine, University of Missouri, Columbia.

postoffice was too "dinky," so he erected a postoffice building, but the postmaster and Younger "fell out" and the postmaster never moved to its new quarters.

While pursuing his activities in Elmo, Younger also gave attention to nearby towns. The town of Blanchard, on the Iowa line, lost its hotel by fire. Younger went up and agreed to build them a new one. His offer seemed fair enough. He asked for a site and a cash bonus and in return would erect a good hotel building and secure a tenant. Younger carried out his part of the contract, erecting a building far ahead of the town, and securing the tenant. Some people in Blanchard occasionally gave rise to the thought that possibly someone up there might have erected the hotel, but the fact remains that nobody did, and that Younger did what no one in Blanchard did, so there you are. The hotel property was deeded to one of Younger's Texas creditors, who is said to have held a claim against him for $5,000.

Younger also extended his operations to Westboro, in Atchison county, Mo., where he erected a row of three cement store buildings at a cost of $2,200. The deserted quarters of the Elmo Improvement and Business association at Atchison also remind one of the time when Younger decided to establish an Atchison branch, an event that was properly treated in the Atchison newspapers much in the same manner as newspapers treat the arrival of a new railroad or a big factory enterprise. A banker in Atchison also holds Younger's note for $8,500, and the banker in turn is holding to the Westboro property, together with some of the property in Elmo in the hope that he ultimately will get a run for his money.

The operations of Younger really ceased about last February. People long before this had begun to wonder. The financier and his wife had been living in the $5,000 house. The wife didn't figure in the operations, although most of the stock of the Elmo Improvement and Business association was in her name. One day someone brought a suit against Younger and the sheriff waited on him.

"I've got an attachment for your stock in the 'Improvement association,'" said the sheriff. "Will you accept service?"

"Accept service," ejaculated Younger. "Here, I'll give you the stock—two shares. That's all I hold." And he extended the stock to the sheriff, laughing softly.

One day last February Mrs. Younger with their adopted baby left Elmo. It was said she was going to Nebraska. Not long after Younger left the city, advising the people in the light plant that he would return shortly. The furnishings of the bungalow were not touched. Even clothing, family pictures and some jewelry were left behind. Elmo hasn't seen Younger from that day.

No one asked him to leave. No one particularly wanted him to leave. Younger was badly in debt, which is no crime, but that was all.

His failure to return, however, resulted in a court proceeding. George W. Walton, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants bank of Elmo, was made receiver for the property. Younger's debts, as far as Walton was able to determine, approximated $25,000.

The news that Younger had gone to Canada and was working as a laborer drifted back several months after his departure.

The creditors are acting game under a trying circumstance, and Younger, it is confidently believed in Nodaway county, is merely waiting for an opportunity to spring on new worlds of conquest in the regions of the north.

But what became of all the money that undoubtedly passed through Younger's hands? Texas? Elmo believes not. The buildings in Elmo are all occupied. The light plant has broken even. The modern bungalow, with its spacious grounds, is as good as the traditional old wheat. The people paid for the cement walks, not Younger.

Five hundred acres, in two tracts, was sold by Younger long ago to efface two items of indebtedness—one for $23,000; the other for $22,000. He received $5,000 in negotiable notes in this bargain. What became of that?

Younger says he started his company with a cash capital of $20,000. He was successful. He dealt in real security—improved real estate.

What became of the money? "It's been my observation," says Receiver Walton, "that a genius never can tell what happened to his money." Joe Younger was a genius.

THE FIRST STEP

Toward a Federated Church Movement in Maryville Was Taken Sunday.

Rev. S. D. Harkness of the First Presbyterian church took the first step Sunday in the federated church movement suggested by the late Rev. Dr. J. S. Ford of the First M. E. church in his last sermon on Sunday morning, September 22, which ended only a few minutes before he was stricken with death.

Rev. Harkness appointed two members from his church who will be members of the executive board. That will bring together the church interests of Maryville in such a manner as to put every church on a higher working basis and make each one more efficient and more able to carry on the work of Christianity.

The movement was an original idea of Dr. Ford, and will, in truth, be a memorial of him. It is not known whether there is another movement in any town in the country, and it is the result of the honest effort of our lamented citizen in devising some plan that would redound to the highest good of Maryville.

The two members appointed by Rev. Harkness for the Presbyterian church are Prof. G. H. Colbert and John D. Richey. The other ministers of the city are heartily in favor of the movement, and will soon make known their appointments. The official board of the First M. E. church will hold a meeting Monday evening and will appoint two of its members to be members of this executive board for the federation.

Does the word reputation mean anything to you? Stop and think and figure and you will know why the Malleable range has the reputation of being not only the best but the least expensive. Let the man from the factory show you this week at Barbour's South Side Hardware.

Every inch one pushes beyond the normal distance of 12 inches after eye-failure begins at 38, means an inch of danger. Ninety-nine persons out of a hundred may do it with safety. You may be the one that can't. The man having the best eyes when old age comes will be the one that needs this first call for help.

Special Demonstration and Sale on Great Majestic Ranges

One Week Only
Sept. 30 to Oct. 5

SAVE $8.00

A special inducement during our demonstration week only, with every MAJESTIC RANGE sold (prices always the same) we will give free one handsome set of ware as illustrated here.

Every piece of this ware is the best of its kind. No, a piece that is not needed in every kitchen. It cannot possibly be bought for less than $8.00. This ware is on exhibition at our store. DON'T FAIL TO SEE IT.

Special

All during this week a special demonstrator direct from the MAJESTIC FACTORY will be glad to show you "ALL ABOUT RANGES"—SHOW YOU why the MAJESTIC is the best range on earth at any price.

COME, IF YOU INTEND TO BUY OR NOT.

EDUCATION lies in KNOWING THINGS—KNOW why the oven of a range is heated—KNOW how the water is heated—HOW the top is heated—WHY the MAJESTIC uses so little fuel—KNOW how a range is made inside and outside. This education may serve you in the future. DON'T OVERLOOK a chance to KNOW THINGS shown by one who knows. COME.

Don't Overlook the Date: This is a Special Invitation to You and Your Friends and Neighbors

Which Shall It Be?

Do you intend to continue laboring, burning valuable fuel and destroying high priced food with that old worn-out cook stove?

You know that old stove eats up a lot of fuel each year.

You know you have trouble in getting it to bake just right, in fact, spoil a batch of bread every once in a while—you know it costs considerable for yearly repairs.

Stop and think and figure.

Wouldn't it pay you to buy a good range—a range with a reputation—

The Great Majestic Malleable and Charcoal Iron Range

You make no mistake in buying the GREAT MAJESTIC—it's the range with THE REPUTATION—ask your neighbors. Then, too, it's made just right and of the right kind of material—MALLEABLE AND CHARCOAL IRON—riveted together practically air tight—lined with pure asbestos board—parts being malleable can't break—has a movable reservoir and an oven that don't warp—that's why the MAJESTIC uses so little fuel, bakes just right every day in the year (browns bread just right all over without turning), heats fifteen gallons of water while breakfast is cooking—properly handled lasts a lifetime, and costs practically nothing for repairs.

Don't buy the range you expect to last a lifetime—"unsight unseen;" you'll be sure to be disappointed. Come to our store during demonstration week, see the GREAT MAJESTIC—have its many exclusive features explained—find out why the MAJESTIC is 300 per cent stronger than other ranges where most ranges are weakest.

WISE PROVISION OF NATURE

Sensitive Whiskers of the Feline Tribe Serve as Eyes for Guidance of Their Owners.

We are apt to think that the cat's ability to see in the dark is due entirely to its eyes, but competent authority assures us that the feline's power in this respect is due almost as much to its "whiskers." These delicate hairs that project from the muzzle of the cat family are wonderful mechanisms. Each one grows from a follicle or gland, nerved to the utmost sensibility. Its slightest contact with any obstacle is instantly felt by the animal, though the hair itself may be tough and insensible. The exaggerated whiskers on the muzzle often project to such a distance that from point to point they indicate the exact width of the body of the beast. Consider the lion stealing through the jungle at night in search of prey, when the least stir of a twig gives alarm. The lion's whiskers indicate through the nicest nerves, any object that may be in his path. A touch stops him short before pushing through some close thicket, where the rustling leaves and boughs would betray his presence. Wherever his head may be thrust without a warning from the vibrations there his body may pass noiselessly. It is the aid given him by his whiskers, in connection with the soft cushions of his feet, that enables him to proceed as silently as the snake.—Harper's Weekly.

BETTER THAN DOCTORS' BILLS

French Actress Lets the World Into a Little Secret That Is of Some Interest.

For keeping slender and supple a simple home treatment—costing nothing—is gladly presented herewith. It comes straight from a French actress who, though no longer in her first youth, is noted for her lithe and lovely figure.

On waking, the lady makes it a practice to drink a cup of chocolate and read the morning paper in bed. Directly she has absorbed the contents of both she tears the newspaper into tiny bits and scatters them over the floor. Then, before dressing, she trips lightly about the room picking up the pieces one at a time, bending and recovering herself for each scrap. The gymnastic is perfect for "lines." Humming a cheerful tune the while beguiles the time and opens the lungs. Just before going to bed at night she successively edifies and beautifies herself after the same manner with the evening paper. This simple procedure imparts sprightliness and charm—to mind as well as shape.

Mrs. A. S. Watson of Pickering was a Maryville visitor Monday.

I prefer always to learn from the author himself how he did think, than to hear from another how he ought to have thought.

How often the cursory reading of a book, which irresistibly carries one with it, exercised the greatest influence on a man's whole life, and produced at once a decisive effect, which neither a second perusal nor earnest reflection can either strengthen or modify.

I turn back toward the beloved ancients who still constantly, like distant blue mountains, distinct in their outlines and masses, but indiscernible in their parts and internal relations, bound the horizon of my intellectual wishes.

Always fortunate is that epoch in a literature when the great works of the past again rise up as if thawed, and come into notice, because they then produce a perfectly fresh effect.—Goethe.

Swatting the Fly in Korea.

Flies are the staple produce of all parts of Cho-sen and make life simply miserable for the Japanese residing there. Flies are also well known to be mediums for the spread of epidemics. Last year the authorities of Cholla-do offered to buy flies, and encouraged by their success they will repeat the experiment this year. Last year the police was asked to take the trouble of buying flies with money supplied by philanthropic contributors, and 4.68 koku (1 koku is equal to 5.13 bushels) of flies were bought from May 26 to December 2 for 212.97 yen. This year 5.68 koku have already been bought for 268 yen at 3 to 4 sen a go. Local taxes were appropriated for a portion of the expense required.

The flies are burned on being purchased. Flies are valued at 3 sen a head on the mainland, but flies have never been known to exist in such immense masses before as to acquire monetary value.—Japan Weekly Mail.

Real Mailed Fiat.

A steel arm which had belonged to the Sire of Mittelhausen has just been acquired by the Rohan museum at Straasburg.

The gallant warrior lost an arm in battle, and a clever mechanic devised another for him, which had truly wonderful functions. It could be folded to an angle of 90 degrees and be extended again by pressing a button at the wrist.

The fingers of the hand were each movable, the thumb being independent of the others.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Current Styles.

"Why doesn't that young man ever come into the parlor?"

"Oh, I don't know."

"Isn't he a candidate for your hand?"

"Yes; but he seems to prefer a front porch campaign."

Sam Thought He Had Combination, but Relief for Mandy Was Not in Sight.

A lazy dorky who let his wife take in washing without demur had a dream one night, and a polly dream at that. He borrowed money from her to play the combination, and before he left home he stated his conviction. "Mandy," he said, "Ah's g'in' up town to play dis combine, what am sho' to come out. When you see me comin' home in a hack yo' break up yo' washtubs." The "combine" didn't come out, and Sam, in great dejection, acquired a lot of gin. Then he was messed up a bit by a dray, and some other darkies hired a hack to take him home. Sam was nearly out, and was breathing heavily when the hack turned a familiar corner, and his wife was standing in the door. With his last ounce of energy he stuck his head out of the window and yelled: "Mandy, spare dem tubs!"

Strategy of a Wasp.

A mud wasp was seen to alight within an inch or two of a spider's nest on the side opposite the opening, says an exchange. Creeping around toward the entrance to the nest, the wasp stopped a little short of it and for a moment remained perfectly quiet. Then, reaching out one of its antennae, he wriggled it before the opening. A moment later he withdrew the "feeler." This overture had the desired effect, inasmuch as the head of the household, a big spider, came out to see what was wrong and to set it to rights.

No sooner had the spider emerged to that point at which it was at the worst disadvantage than the wasp, with a quick movement, thrust its sting into the body of its foe, killing it easily and almost instantly.

The experiment was repeated by the wasp, and when there was no response from the inside he evidently became satisfied that he held the fort. At all events, he proceeded to enter the nest and slaughter the young spiders, which were lugged off one at a time.

Wilkes Land Now Defined.

The existence of Wilkes' land has always been an open question and in many of the geographical works reference to it has been omitted or at least questioned. One of the results of the Mawson expedition to the south polar regions has been to settle this matter beyond all doubt. Two parties were landed on this questioned land, one about 1,200 miles north from the other. These parties, and a third one, which was landed on Macquerie's island, will be relieved during the next southern summer, and upon their arrival there will be some valuable and authentic information about the land which has been the subject of discussion for 75 years.

The Proof That Maryville Readers Cannot Deny.

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills cure permanently.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test. Miss Harriett McClurg, 405 E. Thompson St., Maryville, Mo., says: "I gave a public statement in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills in September, 1908. Since then I have had occasional attacks of kidney complaint and I have always used Doan's Kidney Pills successfully at such times. I recommend them whenever an opportunity is given me. I was troubled with pain and weakness in my back and hips and could hardly get about. Doan's Kidney Pills corrected these troubles immediately and after using them, I felt better in every way." Maryville Merchants' Sixth Sale Day Wed. October 2

THE stores are all ready for their Fall and Winter trade. The new goods are just in. They are offering the cream of their stock at prices that will attract everyone. There is not a merchant who advertises on this page who is trying to unload season goods.

The reason that these prices are made is that by all going together the merchants have reduced the selling cost to a minimum, and an even greater reason is that the merchants have decided that on this one day they will share their profits with customers, that they are willing to sell twice the amount of goods at half the profit.

We believe that an investigation of the goods offered for this day will convince you that they are better than can be found anywhere else in Northwest Missouri.

Commercial Uses Have Nearly Extirminated the Tiniest of Feathered Creatures.

Our continent has a monopoly of humming birds, the gems of the feathered creation. Of these there are said to be as many as four hundred species, most of which confine themselves to the tropical regions.

Only eighteen varieties live farther north than Mexico. It is generally thought that humming birds live upon honey. This, however, is a mistake. They do obtain and devour honey, it is true, but most of their food consists of the small insects which inhabit certain flowers.

Humming birds are so small that when they are captured for commercial purposes it is impossible to use even the smallest shot for fear of injuring their skins. They are therefore stunned with a drop of water from a blowgun or syringe and fall into a net, when they are quickly poisoned.

Humming birds vary in size from those half as large as a sparrow to those about the size of a bee. Their flight is so swift that they can be well seen only when poised above a flower. The little creatures bid fair to be exterminated on account of the senseless and cruel fashion of using them as trimming for women's hats.—Ave Maria.

Sweet Perquisite.

Candy is a perquisite of theater ushers seldom taken into account. After a Saturday matinee the enterprising usher can secure enough bonbons and chocolates to last a week. The more absorbing the play the larger the supply. At an interesting climax the emotional matinee girl forgets her candy box and lets it slide to the floor with several pieces sticking in the corners. Immediately after the performance all enterprising ushers search the house for discarded sweets.

A Mark of Devotion.

"The Grimsbys are devoted to their family interests, aren't they?" "Yes, indeed. Why, when they secured a prize cook, the eldest son married her to keep her in the family."

Massenet a Twenty-first Child.

If the seventh child of a family is credited, as it not uncommonly is, with certain mystical gifts, it would seem to follow that a twenty-first child should be possessed of some extraordinary talent. However that may be, Massenet, who had twenty brothers and sisters to precede him, very early developed pronounced musical tastes, and at the age of nine he played a Beethoven sonata for an examination, through which he came successfully.

AX MAN BUSY IN ILLINOIS

Bodies of Four Found Burned in Ruins of Home.

HOUSE WAS FIRED TO HIDE CRIME

Investigation Following Cutting of Telephone Line Leads to Discovery of Murders—Motive Probably Robbery.

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 30.—Discovery of the charred bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pfanschmidt, their daughter, Marie, aged 16 and Miss Emma Kaempfen, a 21-year-old school teacher, at the Pfanschmidt home south of Quincy, leads the police to think the four were murdered. Between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning neighbors discovered the Pfanschmidt farm residence on fire. When they reached the scene, the house was reduced to ashes, all contents were destroyed and the four charred skeletons of Pfanschmidt, wife, daughter and the teacher were found. The teacher had boarded with the family.

Investigation showed that the only stove on the premises was in a small building distant from the house where the skeletons were found. Fresh bug tracks were discovered leading from the residence and the authorities say the murderer or murderers, after slaying the four and then igniting the house to cover the crime, fled.

Ray C. Pfanschmidt, the only survivor of the family, was away from home at the time.

Officials Are Puzzled.

The neighbors who discovered the fire suspected foul play and immediately summoned the sheriff and coroner of Adams county also the chief of police of Quincy. These officials are baffled. Indications are that the quadruple murder was committed in the night and the burning of the dwelling was to conceal the crime.

Near neighbors say none of the family was seen for two days, and it was observed that mail left in the letter box by the rural mail carrier had not been disturbed. A load of oats which Pfanschmidt had fixed to haul to town was standing in the yard.

Miss Kaempfen, who graduated last year from the Quincy high school, had made it an invariable rule to come to the city and spend Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kaempfen.

Victims Well-to-Do.

Her absence alarmed her parents and all day they tried to get in communication by long distance telephone with the Pfanschmidt residence, but were unsuccessful. At an examination of the bodies held here, it was found Miss Kaempfen's head had been crushed with some blunt instrument.

Mr. and Mrs. Pfanschmidt were born in this vicinity and had lived here all of their lives. Each was well financially, independent of the other. Pfanschmidt had recently amassed a large sum of money from the sale of horses and it is thought persons knowing of the sale slew him with intent of robbery.

HANNIBAL ROAD CLUB IS ACTIVE

Auto Owners Hope to Get Members Within Radius of 100 Miles.

Hannibal, Mo., Sept. 30.—A movement for better roads in western Illinois and northeast Missouri is spreading rapidly to get hundreds of car owners in this part of the country to join the Hannibal Auto association. Its aim is to better the road conditions in this part of the state. The movement was launched here a few days ago and it is likely that the club will decide to open its membership to owners of machines within a radius of 100 miles of this city.

The club plans to do much more for good roads. An official marker has been adopted by the club and it will be used on all roads leading here within a radius of 50 miles.

Sneed Gets Venue Change.

Amarillo, Tex., Sept. 30.—Counsel for John Beal Sneed won the second battle with the prosecution for the life of the slayer of Al G. Boyce, Jr., when Judge J. N. Browning ordered a change of venue to Wilbarger county. A change of venue in the case against Beach B. Epling, charged jointly with Sneed in encompassing the death of Boyce, was ordered to Hall county.

Motor Car Bandits Active.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Four restaurants were raided in succession and patrons and proprietors held up at pistol point by a band of motor car bandits. The robberies ended a night's campaign in Indiana, where a score of people were robbed, one of $800. Assistant Chief of Police Schuetzler detailed a squad of motor cycle policemen to attempt to run down the gang.

Season's First Football Fatality.

St. Joseph, Sept. 30.—The football game between the St. Joseph and Oregon, Mo., high school teams was stopped in the last quarter when Hugo Geil, captain for Oregon, was thrown on his head and suffered concussion of the brain and paralysis of his left side. He was carried off the field unconscious and physicians say he cannot live.

TWO ARMY AVIATORS KILLED

TEST FLIGHT ENDS IN TRAGIC ACCIDENT.

College Park, Md., Field the Scene of Second Fatal Aeroplane Wreck.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Two more lives were sacrificed to aviation at the United States army aviation field, College Park, Md., near here, when an army aeroplane fell 35 feet to the ground, killing Corporal Frank S. Scott, and so dangerously injured Second Lieut. Lewis C. Rockwell that he died a few hours later.

Hundreds of persons, including fellow army officers attached to the aviation school, breathlessly witnessed the tragic accident.

Lieut. Rockwell had started up with Corporal Scott as a passenger to make a test flight in his trial for a military aviator's license. They had been in the air about eight minutes, ascending to a height of 500 feet, then gliding down had got about 35 feet from the ground. At this point the aviator turned the machine upward again and something went wrong. Instantly the aeroplane buckled and crashed to the ground, being reduced to a heap of wreckage.

Lieut. Rockwell was the fourth commissioned army officer to meet death in an aviation accident. The first was Lieut. Thomas E. Selfridge, killed while flying with Orville Wright, who had his leg broken in the fall.

The second was Lieut. Kelly, whose machine got beyond control at San Antonio, Tex., May 10, 1911. The third was Lieut. Leighton W. Hazlehurst, who, with his instructor was killed on the same field where Lieut. Rockwell and Corporal Scott fell.

WILL DISCUSS ROAD BUILDING

American Road Congress at Atlantic City Will Devote Entire Week to Better Highways.

Atlantic City, Sept. 30.—The American road congress opened here today, to continue till October 5, inclusive. It is intended at this congress to take up the subject of highway building more thoroughly than has ever been done before in this country. From the attitude of the delegates and visitors it is apparent that they are all enthusiasts, determined to give to the cause of public roads the greatest impetus it has yet received.

One of the chief organizations represented at the congress is the American Bar association. The delegates from this association are Frederick E. Vadham of Albany, N. Y.; William A. Schier of Boston and Henry D. Estabrook of New York City. The association, through these delegates, will have charge of the legislative section of the congress. Another important feature will be the conference of the leading educational institutions of the country under the auspices of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education. One of the great problems that confronts the congress is the insufficient supply of engineers to carry on the work of public road building.

The congress is presided over by Logan Waller Page, director of the United States office of public roads who in welcoming the delegates and visitors made an impressive speech.

Schuyler County Out of Debt.

Lancaster, Mo., Sept. 30.—Schuyler county is out of debt. At the Old Settlers' reunion the $180,000 worth of Missouri, Iowa & Nebraska railroad bonds was burned as the crowd cheered. The bonds were issued to carry the county's debts. George W. Melvin, 91 years old, ignited the certificates. For 40 years the county had been in debt. Judge N. M. Shelton of Macon delivered the address to the old settlers.

Students Into Politics.

Wichita, Kan., Sept. 30.—Students of Fairmount college formed two political clubs, one to support Woodrow Wilson, the other Theodore Roosevelt. The Wilson supporters took possession of the chapel meeting and organized a club with 55 members. The Roosevelt supporters held a separate meeting. Most of the members are voters.

BANK ROBBERS IN MISSOURI?

Two More Members of Canadian Gang Sought in Kansas City.

BOTH ESCAPED ST. LOUIS RAID

Finder of Account Book, With Names and Addresses, Causes Vigorous Search to be Made in Four Cities.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—An account book with records of routes, expenditures and many names and addresses, which the police are keeping secret, has just been found by detectives here and is believed to contain clues to the safe blowers who robbed the Bank of Montreal in New Westminster, British Columbia, of $272,000, and spent several weeks in Chicago, negotiating under the noses of the police for the disposal of the Canadian bills.

Operatives of private detective agencies and police are now seeking members of the gang in Omaha, Minneapolis and Aberdeen, S. D., and Kansas City.

Stacey Only an Agent.

James W. Stacey, arrested on identification by his wife, is not a member of the gang that robbed the bank, but an agent for them, according to James Sidas, the Greek saloon keeper in whose place Lieut. Burns was injured in an attempt to arrest the safe-blowers.

Sidas told of his attempts to dispose of $140,000 of the stolen bills.

A man known to the saloon keeper as "Big Charlie" conducted the negotiations for the exchange of the stolen money. Sidas says he was offered a 15 per cent commission for changing the bills. An attempt to change the bills in a West Side bank aroused suspicion and Sidas withdrew from the transaction in fear that he would get into trouble, he said.

Two Robbers Escaped.

St. Louis, Sept. 30.—That two other men implicated in the robbery of the New Westminster bank in Canada were in St. Louis when James W. Stacey was arrested here last week was the statement made by Asher Rosseter, superintendent of a private detective agency. The men fled south and west, Rosseter says, and he has their descriptions.

Lulu Wilson, the girl through whom Stacey was arrested, is hiding in St. Louis, although her whereabouts are known to the local police. In telling the police her story of the attempt by Police Lieut. Burns of Chicago to arrest the two men in a cafe when she was holding them in conversation, she says that, after Lieut. Burns had been beaten into insensibility, Stacey's last words to her were: "I'll get you yet, Lulu."

Superintendent Rosseter says the robbers have $170,000 of the stolen money hidden in Chicago or vicinity. Stacey's lawyer says he will fight extradition.

FRAUD STOPS LAND VALUATION

Oklahoma Politicians Got Inside Information on Choice Chotaw Coal Locations.

Muskogee, Ok., Sept. 30.—Following a story that certain politicians and capitalists were getting inside advance information of the appraisal of the $500,000 acres of segregated coal land of the Choctaw nation and that the appraisement is too low, orders have been received from the department of the interior rejecting the partly completed appraisement and a new one ordered made.

The lands appraised in Haskell and LeFlore counties, the richest in the segregation, caused the order.

Rewards for McKnelly Slayer.

Topeka, Sept. 30.—Kansas will pay $250 for the arrest and conviction of the murderers of Theodore McKnelly, wife and daughter, at Wellington September 25. Sumner county authorities have offered this reward and asked the governor to increase it. The son has been arrested as a suspect.

POLICE FOUGHT WITH PARADERS

Riot Results From Attempt to Stop I. W. W. Demonstration.

DISTURBANCE WAS UNEXPECTED

Lawrence, Mass., Textile Workers, Marching Without Permit, Told to Stop, Beat Officers With Their Own Clubs.

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 30.—Police and paraders fought with knives and clubs here prior to a demonstration by members of the Industrial Workers of the World. Two policemen were stabbed, a number of demonstrators were clubbed and an I. W. W. leader was captured after a hard fight and then freed. Only two arrests were made. One shot was fired from the ranks of the paraders.

The fight began when the police tried to stop an informal parade of textile operatives preceding a demonstration in honor of Anna Lopizzo and John Dany, who were killed in last winter's strike riots.

Met Visitors at Depot. The clash was quite unexpected. More than 20,000 operatives met at the railroad station to welcome 700 members of the Industrial Workers of the World who had come from Boston to participate in a parade to the graves of Anna Lopizzo and John Dany.

After the visitors had detrained, an impromptu parade started, turning finally into Essex street, the main business thoroughfare of the city.

The parade was informal and no application had been made for a parade permit. The police, notified that the operatives were marching, attempted to end the demonstration. A squad of 25 officers was sent to Essex and Lawrence streets, where they threw a line across Essex street and awaited the arrival of the procession.

Argued With Police. When the head of the parade reached the line of officers it halted and an argument began. The police notified the marchers that they must disperse, because they had no permit. Those in the front rank were endeavoring to fall back, when suddenly the marchers in the rear pressed forward, and the mill workers tried to pass the police.

They struck right and left at the officers, who responded by swinging their clubs. Many paraders were knocked bleeding to the ground. In some instances the marchers robbed the officers of their clubs and began to beat them back.

Made Officers Retreat. The police were forced to retreat into Lawrence street. It was there that Carte Tresca, an editor, who is an organizer for the I. W. W., was seized by officers, who started with him toward the police station nearby. Angered by the arrest of their leader, the crowd made a rush for the officers. The police appeared to be fighting to hold the prisoner, but a moment or two later Tresca was at liberty. Later the crowd was driven through Lawrence street and on to the common, where the parade dispersed.

BLEW UP POLICE PATROL MOTOR

Los Angeles Prisoner Wrecked Vehicle and Caused One Death Trying to Escape.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 30.—A prisoner on the way to jail blew up a police motor patrol downtown by igniting the gasoline with a match. The vehicle was wrecked and one prisoner was burned to death.

Two others, with Patrolman Louis Canto, were injured dangerously.

Canto, with his clothing aflame, started in pursuit of the man who started the fire and another prisoner, but was stopped by onlookers who stripped his flaming clothing from his body. The fugitive escaped. The patrol was being driven back to central station. Gasoline fumes were released when the fuel tank was opened for repairs.

OHIO RIVER BOAT LINES MERGE

Three Million Dollar Corporation Takes Over Many Small Packet Companies.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 30.—A $3,000,000 steamboat line became a reality when John W. Hubbard of the Hubbard-Parkwell company and associates took over several packet companies doing business on the Ohio river between here and Cincinnati and New Orleans.

New boats will be built and better service is promised shippers on all river routes. Record speed was made by the organizers of the new company in purchasing the smaller lines and consolidating them, a half score companies being taken over in one afternoon.

Police Car Kills a Man.

Salt Lake City, Sept. 30.—In its haste to reach the D. & R. G. railroad yards, where Robert Johnson, 9 years old, had been crushed by a car, a police motor killed Finley Martin. He was traveling from Sioux City, Ia., to California. The car fractured the skull of James H. Scanlan, Jr., of Roxbury, Mass.

WILLIAM MARCONI.

TO BUILD BRIDGE IN TWO DAYS

PLAN TO LAY PONTOON IN RECORD TIME.

Leavenworth Soldiers Will Span Missouri River With Structure 900 Feet Long.

Leavenworth, Kan., Sept. 28.—Company E of the second battalion of engineers will undertake a big job Monday in building a pontoon bridge across the Missouri river. It is hoped to complete the bridge in two days.

Material is now being hauled to the west approach and Monday and Tuesday the bridge will be constructed. Company E, which is to build the bridge, is commanded by Capt. T. H. Dillon, an expert at bridge building.

The bridge when completed will be 900 feet in length. It is no little undertaking to span the "Big Muddy," due to its swift current, but to overcome this, triple anchors will be sunk into the bottom of the river to hold the pontoons.

The last time an attempt was made to build a bridge across the Missouri was in 1903. At that time the engineer troops experienced considerable difficulty in getting anchors which would hold the pontoons.

When the structure is completed the authorities at the military prison will use it for the purpose of hauling some valuable timber from the east side of the river. All of the engineer material at the post will be used in the construction of the bridge by company E. It will be built across the river to the east of the prison grounds. It will be a sight worth seeing and will undoubtedly draw many visitors.

ESCAPED FROM SINKING VESSEL

Sixteen Men Rescued From Lake Superior After Being Tossed About in Small Boats.

Marquette, Mich., Sept. 28.—Capt. Henry Richardson and his crew of 16 men narrowly escaped death when the steamer Culligan sank in Lake Superior, 20 miles west of Grand Island. The sailors were tossed about for several hours in small boats until rescued by the fishing tug Columbia.

The Culligan, laden with ore, was 10 miles from shore when it sprung a leak and began to go down by the head. Those on board took to the small boats. The waves ran so high that the sailors had difficulty in keeping afloat. An attempt was made to tow towards Grand Island, but no headway could be made. After the men had become exhausted the fishing tug Columbia came up and took all aboard.

TO BAR MISSOURI PROGRESSIVES

Injunction Proceedings Being Prepared to Keep Names Off Official Ballot.

Jefferson City, Sept. 28.—It is stated here by a Republican that B. J. Schnurmacher, a St. Louis attorney acting for the Republican state committee, has prepared injunction proceedings to prevent the secretary of state, Cornelius Beach, from placing the Progressive state ticket on the ballot. The application is in the hands of a local attorney representing Mr. Schnurmacher, who will file it in the Cole county court Monday, according to the same informant.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 28.—The Kansas City, Clay County & St. Joseph Railway company bought a site at the corner of Eighth and Angelique streets upon which it will erect a passenger and freight station. A lease also has been entered into for a building opposite the custom house, in which will be located the electric line's city ticket office.

One Dead in Mine Explosion.

McAlester, Ok., Sept. 28.—An explosion in the Bolen-Darnell coal company's mine at Craig killed Antonio Matza and injured Frank Spanovalla, shot miners. A crew from the mine rescue station was sent from here. The explosion was caused by a windy shot. The mine is damaged slightly.

Fashion's Fancies

Persian embroideries, with brocade and a good deal of silver, will be used in evening models.

Fashion favors small ribbon ruffles and bows of picot edged ribbons for millinery purposes.

At the seaside a refer of ratine or loosely cut ivory tweed is desirable to throw on over light dresses.

White dresses for afternoon and evening are charming with bright green, red and amber trimmings.

The new Medici collars, with extended ruffs in the back, are likely to be warmly welcomed this fall.

In the finer gowns two-toned mirror velvet appears, usually a black stripe on blue, green, gold, purple or red.

Some of the new dresses are made of two-toned corduroy, combined with silk charmeuse or chiffon in plain color.

Old Riga Being Modernized.

The ancient city of Riga, on the river Dwina, near the Baltic sea, is undergoing a wonderful change. The place was founded in 1201 by the Knights of the Sword, a German order instituted to convert the Letts and Estonians. It became in time a fortress of considerable strength. It did not lose the appearance of a medieval town until 1857, when its masonry walls were torn down. When Napoleon invaded Russia more than a century ago the governor of Riga burned two thousand houses. Riga is now being converted into a modern industrial city. The centuries-old moat has been turned into a picturesque canal and its banks have been planted with ornamental trees and shrubs to provide a popular promenade. The old, narrow winding streets of the inner town are being widened and straightened. The suburban quarter, for so long a collection of wooden huts, is being built over into large apartment houses. Several squares and public gardens and buildings are being constructed. One of the squares is used as a military parade ground. On it is the Russian cathedral, the city museum and a school supported by the chamber of commerce.—New York World.

QUEBEC A CITY OF THE PAST

Development of Canadian Dominion Goes Forward, but She Has Little Part in It.

Quebec herself rather endures being quaint than enjoys it, for in this day of Canadian development she has dreamed of the future after the fashion of those insistent towns further to the west. "It has not been pleasant for her," says Edward Hungerford in Harper's Weekly, "to drop from second place in Canadian commercial importance to fourth or fifth. She has had to sit back and see such cities as Winnipeg, for instance, increase from an Indian trading place to a metropolitan center two or three times her size, while her own wharves rot. It is a matter of keen humiliation to the town every time a big ocean liner goes sailing up the river to Montreal—her river, if you are to give ear to the protests of her citizens whom you meet along the Terrace of a late afternoon—without halting at her wharves, perhaps without even a respectful salute to the town, which has been known these many years as the Gibraltar of North America."

Dig or Die!

No matter what industrial, commercial or social problem is to be solved, it always takes us back to agriculture. Human life begins with an immediate demand for food and clothing, and these in their primary state take us to the farmer. Every article of food, with the single exception of the fishes in the waters, is the product of the soil, as are the various substances from which our clothes are made. Thus human life is directly dependent on the products of the soil, and no considerable population could exist for a day without the daily necessities of life derived from the cultivation of the land. As food and clothing must come from the farm, it is plain that the American people have got to go back to the land or starve. If they will not themselves plow and dig, they will have to employ foreign labor to do it.—New Orleans Picayune.

How Rain Bores Holes.

"When rain falls it does not actually soak into the earth, but bores its way in, forming tiny tubes," says an interesting article in Harper's Weekly. "These tubes are so small that it would be impossible to insert a hair in one of them without bursting its walls. Sometimes the tubes are bored down to a depth of four or five feet. When the surface dries, the water evaporates from the tubes, just as it would from a pipe. If the tube is twisted it takes longer for the water to evaporate. If one takes a rake and stirs the ground after each rain, he breaks the tops of the tubes, and the water will stand in them for months. In this way the farmers of the west, on the semi-arid lands, store the rainfall one year, and raise a crop of wheat every other year—there being sufficient water in two years, but not enough in one, to raise a crop."

She Could Not Distinguish.

"Who are those people over at the little table?" asked old Mrs. Knowall, who was having her first meal at a large suburban boarding house.

"Mr. and Mrs. Brown and their children," she was informed.

"But there are two ladies too, one standing up and waiting on the children and one sitting down," remarked Mrs. Knowall.

"Oh, one is the children's nurse." "Which one is the nurse?" she inquired eagerly. "The one sitting down or the one standing up?"

Spiteful.

Kate—Mrs. Wops boasts that she made her husband.

Neg—Anybody could tell that, to look at the way the poor man is frayed at the edges.

Which She Frequently Uses.

She—Say what you like about marriage; it gives a woman a chance.

He—Yes, a fighting chance.

MOTOR BANDITS GOT BIG HAUL

Five Men Took Over $30,000 From Indiana Milling Company.

FLED WITH POSSE IN PURSUIT

In High Power Car Robbers Sped Across State at Record Breaking Speed—Sheriff's Men in Slower Machines.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Five bandits driving a large high powered motor car committed a daring robbery at the office of the Kellman Milling company at Dyer, Ind., and then terrorized the entire Calumet region as they sped across the state at the rate of 50 miles an hour, pursued by 10 machines filled with police.

Two of the robbers lured Leonard Kellman, aged president of the company, to the rear of the grain elevator and held him while the others robbed the safe. More than $30,000 was stolen.

Overpowered Aged President. The bandits drove up to the company's office at noon. Kellman, who is 80 years old, was alone in the office. Power was kept on when the motor car stopped and the men entered the building on the pretext of purchasing some grain and led Kellman to the rear of the elevator. Then they retained him with revolver threats.

After taking all valuables they could find the men returned to the car. Before the aged president recovered and gave the alarm the men were many miles away.

In the meantime, however, persons in the village who saw the speeding car and one of the occupants holding a revolver, had telephoned the police. As soon as Sheriff Grant was informed of the robbery he dispatched ten motor posses in pursuit.

Terrorized Countrymen. Meanwhile, the bandit car, running more than 50 miles an hour, sped toward Valparaiso with the machines of the police far in the rear. At various points along the road farmers reported the passing of the car and the police motors separated and took short cuts across country. By night, however, several of the cars started back, but others kept the chase.

At one point a constable tried to stop the bandits and arrest them for speeding, but more speed was put on and a bullet whizzed in his direction. Where it was possible the robbers skirted villages, and when it was necessary to pass through a thickly settled section they displayed their revolvers to awe farmers who might attempt to stop them. It was said late in the night that they had turned the car south and were making greater speed.

BACK TO PRIMITIVE METHODS

Kansas Who Lost Horses, Makes Yokes and Does Plowing With Ox Team.

Topeka, Sept. 28.—Peter Jobes, a Rush county farmer, lost almost all his horses from the plague just when he started plowing his wheat fields. He had 600 acres of ground yet to be plowed. He had raised a big wheat crop and spent part of his money for a gas tractor engine and set it to work. Then he saw that the field would not be done in time so he picked four 3-year-old steers. He cut down a tree, made two yokes and the bows from a couple of hedge saplings. The four steers were yoked and the next morning hitched to a gang plow and put to work. The field has been plowed and now the four steers are used in sowing the grain.

It was discovered at the end of the day when an accounting was made of the cash on hand, but the facts have been suppressed till now in the hope of catching the culprit, thus far without results.

TEXTILE STRIKE IS SPREADING

Trouble of Last Winter at Lawrence, Mass., to be Repeated.

ALREADY 12,000 ARE INVOLVED

Mill Owners Preparing to Close Down—I. W. W. Leaders Say Action is Unauthorized—Haywood Calling to Direct Men.

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 28.—Practically 12,000 textile operatives here are now affected by the great strike inaugurated by the Industrial Workers of the World to show their sympathy for Joseph J. Ettor and Arturo Giovannitti, leaders of that organization, and as a protest against their trial in connection with the killing of Anna Lopizzo during the strike last winter, which is to begin Monday in Salem.

Because it is feared there will be an extension of the strike in the morning mill owners are preparing to close down the plants in event of further walkouts, or if disorders develop. In a comparatively mild degree, Lawrence is experiencing a repetition of the scenes enacted last winter.

Several Injured. Some of the more eager strikers, in attempting to get workers to leave their machines caused disturbances in several mills. Reports of a number of injuries were received by the police, clubs were flourished to intimidate working operatives and mill machinery at several plants was damaged. A few windows also were broken. The police made only three arrests. These were on charges of assault or destruction of mill property.

Leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World renewed their assertion that the strike was not sanctioned, was unorganized and without a leader.

Beyond Control. "We are naturally unable to control the people," said William Yates of New Bedford, national secretary of the Textile branch of the Industrial Workers of the World. "They broke away from us completely and left their work against our advice. We hoped they would heed the message sent from jail by Ettor and Giovannitti urging them not to strike. Of course, in event of a majority sentiment in favor of a general strike, the Industrial Workers of the World will give the same support to the movement as it did in the great industrial battle last winter."

Secretary Yates announced that William D. Haywood, who directed the strike here last winter, in its latter stages and who on Boston common, two weeks ago, urged a country-wide strike in protest against the detention in jail of Ettor and Giovannitti, had been asked to come to Lawrence and would hurry East and might arrive in Lawrence Sunday or Monday.

WOULD SEND MORE TROOPS OVER

Madero Asks and is Granted Authority Permission of United States for Movement.

Mexico City, Sept. 28.—The Mexican congress granted President Madero's request for authority to ask permission of the United States to again transport Mexican troops through American territory. The authority was granted by Washington and troops under Gen. Tracy Aubert, now at Ojinaga, will be transported. Part of the command will be sent over the southern Pacific railroad entering Mexico at Del Rio, and the others will be sent to Ciudad Portillo Diaz, to cooperate with General Blatquet in command at Sabinas.

"Down With America."

Berne, Switzerland, Sept. 28.—"Down with America" was the slogan of 500 Italian workmen, on strike in sympathy with Ettor and Giovannitti in prison for the Lawrence, Mass., riots, tried to demolish the American minister's house. Police and soldiers dispersed them after a brisk fight. No serious damage was done.

Blame Boys for Wreck.

Fort Smith, Ark., Sept. 28.—Four persons were injured, one seriously, when Iron Mountain passenger train No. 104 was wrecked at Greenwood Junction. The engine turned a somersault after the crew jumped and the combination car was thrown bottom side up. Railway officials declare boys placed bolts on the track to wreck the train.

Blocks a Two-Cent Fare.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 28.—Holding that the Illinois two-cent fare law was confiscatory so far as the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis railroad is concerned, the United States district court here granted a permanent injunction, restraining the state from enforcing the law.

Like Old-Time Campaign.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—A procession, the first in Chicago in years, preceded the opening of the Taft campaign in Illinois. Members of the Hamilton club marched from the clubhouse to the hall, each one carrying a blazing torch.

IT NEVER GROWS OLD

THE STORY OF JOE YOUNGER OF ELMO IS TOLD AGAIN.

IS HEARD IN KANSAS CITY

The Fame of Elmo Spreads With Her Cement Walks, Electric Lights, Opera House and Fine Homes.

In Saturday's issue of the Kansas City Star appears an article about Joseph Younger, formerly of Elmo, but now in Canada, which is as follows:

Elmo, up in a lonely corner of Nodaway county, Missouri, is a village of 360 men, women and children, and the progressive statisticians have figured it out that Elmo, as it now stands, is from eight to sixteen miles ahead of the municipal procession. How Elmo happened to attain to its present eminence involves a story a whole lot longer than Main street, in Elmo, and Elmo's main street is somewhat of an extended thoroughfare.

To know the story of Elmo's rise you must know the story of Joseph Younger. Joseph Younger once was a farm hand. Later he was mayor. However, that last is not Mr. Younger's claim to distinction. It is nothing exceptional for a one-time farm hand to become mayor of a town of 360 population. But it isn't every farm hand who, with no larger field for his efforts than a town of 360 affords, can acquire debts amounting to $90,000, discharge those debts and then contract added obligations in the neighborhood of $50,000.

It has been said that there isn't a single hamlet in this United States that has anything on Elmo since Joe Younger became chairman of the town board, and it is likewise said that J. Rufus Wallingford of the kingdom of George Randolph Chester never had anything on one Mr. Younger.

Joe Younger, following an interesting career, is now in Alberta, Canada, where he went entirely of his own volition. He is working as a laborer on a railroad section for $2.50 a day, and in a letter sent back to Elmo he intimates that he hopes to retrieve his fortunes and make a brand new, brilliant start.

The town folks will tell you that Joe did some plain and fancy speculating, which certainly caused a stir in the commercial circles of that and nearby villages, and the result of these speculations is shown in some of the permanent things of which Elmo can now boast.

Naturally, if you were headed for a village of 360 population you wouldn't expect to see much, but you would miss your guess if you were headed for Elmo. Cement sidewalks constitute one of the finest and most progressive features of this now interesting little village, and it was the energy and push of Joe Younger that put them there. Soon after Joe was made chairman of the town board, a position that calls for the title of mayor, he agitated better walks and the town board was persuaded. The cement sidewalks followed.

Then came the electric light plant, which supplies current for the street lamps and for stores and residences. The light plant was a private corporation, engineered and successfully promoted by the mayor, and to quote the crowd at the postoffice, the light plant is a hum-dinger. It is now in possession of the International Harvester company, which supplied the machinery, and which had something coming to it when Mr. Younger departed for Canada.

Besides the cement walks and the electric lights, citizens can now point out the opera house, the garage, the $5,000 bungalow which Younger built for his own use, and numerous cement store buildings, which came of the inspiration and progressive spirit of the man who is now in Canada. In most villages the avenue called Main street usually is a joke. In Elmo, Main street is all that its name implies.

Younger's speculations extend as far as the Panhandle country in Texas, but as far as Elmo was concerned, most of the various enterprises there were fostered by what was known as the Elmo Improvement and Business company, an organization incorporated under the laws of Arizona, with a capital stock of $50,000, and with plans to do business on a reasonably large scale.

It was owing to the misunderstandings in regard to this company that Younger was prompted to write a letter of explanation, and in this letter, which he forwarded to the Maryville

Tribune, he tells briefly the story of his own romantic career, in a manner better, perhaps than those of his biographers.

Here is the way Younger tells his own story:

I came to Nodaway county twenty-nine years ago and landed in Burlington Junction with twenty-five cents in my pocket. I went to work for Major Hiles, about eight miles west of town, I think. I worked for Mr. Hiles two years and saved my money. I then decided to go to school. I attended school at Stanberry and got my first certificate while Prof. D. L. Chaney was county superintendent. I taught school for fourteen years, when I decided to go on the farm. I bought a farm, borrowing the money to make my payments. Land advanced very fast. During the seven years of my farm life I bought several farms that were run down. I improved these farms and sold them.

At the end of seven years of farm life I sold out and found that I had made $20,000, and by my promptness at the banks had gained wonderful credit. I made up my mind then to get rich, and went to Texas during the Panhandle boom. I bought land in Texas, also several farms in Nodaway and Gentry counties, and at the end of two years I found myself in debt $90,000.

This somewhat alarmed me, and I made up my mind to pay it off. So I told my creditors what I owned and what I was willing to do. They accepted my terms and I paid off $85,000 of this debt in ninety days. Six months after the settlement of these claims I found I had a wonderful credit left me. Then I made up my mind to organize the Elmo Improvement and Business company, and I borrowed $25,000 to do this.

Elmo never has pretended to know anything about Younger's speculations in Texas, except what he told them in a vague way. Elmo can't understand how Younger could have gone in debt to the extent of $90,000, for as far as Elmo was concerned, no one, with a single exception, ever got the better of Younger in a trade or a deal. Once, when a fellow came along selling county rights for a cement post, Younger is said to have taken a gambler's chance, and the chance cost him $1,200. This is the only known record of Younger's losing.

About six years ago, while he was still on the farm, Younger began erecting houses. After he erected a house he would sell it. He appeared prosperous and he undoubtedly had credit. Several bankers will tell you that.

Younger decided that cement buildings were what Elmo needed, so he began to put up this kind. His first big building—a brick—was the financier's most commendable effort, except the bungalow, a handsome residence, which stands out conspicuously on upper Main street, and which is said to have cost $5,000.

That Younger's magnetic personality got him loans goes without saying. One bank president went the limit with him as far as the bank was concerned, and then accompanied him to St. Joseph and enabled him to borrow $10,000 more. Another bank president in a nearby town even insisted on lending money to Younger after the bank directors believed it advisable not to do so. Not a few persons went on Younger's note in Elmo for amounts ranging from $250 to $750.

But there was a reason for Younger's credit. He was doing things. He was doing things of which Elmo never had dreamed. When the Elmo Improvement and Business association was organized Elmo was ready for it. He was elected to the town board and easily secured the election as chairman. There was a law which gave the town board the right to demand improved sidewalks. Younger decided that the property owners should build cement sidewalks in front of their property, and it was so ordered. And the cement sidewalks are there.

"We'll have these streets paved, too," Younger said to one of the town folks. "What Elmo needs is improvements. It's the thing that makes a town go."

The opera house is not an elaborate affair, but it was an event in Elmo. As much so as the electric light plant. Younger had erected two cement buildings on Main street. There was a vacant lot between them. The financier had planned it just that way. When he finished the two business houses the theater was half done. The outer walls of the two business houses made the inner walls for the theater. Younger built a front and back, installed a stage and four hundred dollars worth of scenery; sent to Chicago for five hundred opera chairs and the deed was done. Elmo was ready to book first-class attractions.

NEW WABASH TRAIN

SHENANDOAH PAPER STATES SERVICE WILL BE GIVEN.

OMAHA TO KANSAS CITY

Plan Contemplates Joint Service on Wabash and Great Western With a Through Train.

In Friday's issue of the Shenandoah World appears the following article: Presidents of both the Wabash and Great Western railroads have given favorable decisions and appointed a time for a conference to make a definite decision and complete arrangements for a new through train from Omaha to Kansas City, at the instigation of the Shenandoah Commercial club through their attorney, E. R. Ferguson.

The new train as planned will leave Omaha at 11:30 p. m., passing through Shenandoah about 1 o'clock, and also Marville about an hour later. At Conception Junction it will be switched to the Great Western tracks and go direct to Kansas City, arriving at breakfast time. The opposite train will leave Kansas City about 7:30 a. m., arriving in Shenandoah about noon, and reaching Omaha early in the afternoon. Both trains would include Pullman, observation, dining and chair cars.

The immense and various advantages that this new train would bring are at once apparent.

The train leaving Omaha at night would make connections with nine big trunk lines that arrive in that city from 9:00 until 11:30. It would, among other things, give theater lovers all along the Wabash an opportunity to attend the Omaha attractions without losing a day from work, and save travelers to Kansas City and points south nearly a half day of time. An early afternoon train to Omaha would also be a welcome addition to our train service to a great many Shenandoah people.

There has been a report for the past year or so that the Wabash and the Great Western would add this service and it is probably only a short time until they will do so. Maryville is much interested in the proposed train service, as it will mean a great deal to this city.

Ed Ferritor, agent of the Wabash at this place, when seen today, said that while he had heard nothing of the new service, still he expected that it would be an assured fact in the next few months, as there has been talk of it for some time.

DEATH OF ED ALDEN.

CORN CROP REPORT IS GOOD.

The Crops Largest Since 1896, and Corn Will Average 33 Bushels Over the State.

The following report showing Missouri crop conditions for the month of September was issued Saturday from the office of T. C. Wilson, secretary of the Missouri state board of agriculture:

Corn—The condition of corn, for the state, is practically the same as one month ago, being 86.4. One month ago it was 86.8. The five-year average for the end of September is 77.1. This is the highest since 1906. By sections, present corn condition shows: Northeast, 95; northwest, 92; central, 91; southwest, 73; southeast, 81. The quality of the new crop is much above the average, being 87.4. There is practically no complaint of soft or wormy corn.

It is not thought that the first frost caused any damage of consequence, and it is the opinion of correspondents that 80 per cent of the crop is safe from further frost. A preliminary estimate as to the yield—and it can in no sense be regarded as official or final, representing only a general judgment which comes from looking over the field and which may be radically changed when the crop is harvested—places it at 33 bushels per acre. The large number of stalks bearing two ears is noticeable, while there are but very few if any barren stalks. The probable selling price for corn as given by correspondents, averages 51 cents per bushel, with a few reporting as low as 35 cents. The surplus for shipment is estimated at 15 per cent, but this will be almost entirely between counties and feeding centers within the state. The part of the crop cut is placed at 34 per cent; last year, 54 per cent. A considerable part of the crop goes into silos. However, this will not exceed 5 per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. James Huff of Wilcox were shopping in the city Monday.

Thomas McGarry of near Clyde was a city visitor Monday.

OLD RESIDENT DEAD.

J. E. Alexander of Pickering Passed Away Sunday Afternoon.

James E. Alexander, Sr., of Pickering, a resident of Nodaway county since 1856, died at home Sunday evening at 5 o'clock after a long illness.

The funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, and will be conducted at the Christian church in that town by Rev. F. M. Lindemeyer, the pastor. Burial in White Oak cemetery at Pickering.

Mr. Alexander was one of the best all-round citizens Nodaway county ever had. He was born near Belleville, St. Clair county, Ill., February 31, 1834. When he was 16 years old he went with his parents to Centerville, Ia., where he hired out as a farm hand at $9 a month, turning over his wages to his mother until he was 21 years old. He started out for himself then, his capital amounting to one yoke of oxen.

In 1855 he married Miss Maria Hendrix of near Centerville. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander came to Nodaway county in 1856 with $300, and secured land on the Platte river in Independence township, at $1.25 an acre. They remained there until 1875, when they moved to Maryville to educate their only daughter, Mary, who is Mrs. James L. Neal of Pickering.

He later owned several other farms near Pickering, and was always a prosperous man, and he had been a member of the Christian church for more than forty years.

TALK OF CONCRETE BRIDGES

For Polk Township, and Plans Will Be Made to Bring Up the Matter Soon.

At the meeting of the Nodaway county agricultural and live stock board of directors Saturday afternoon in County Superintendent W. M. Oakerson's office it was decided to find out the cost of building concrete bridges in Polk township, and to submit a bond issue to the people of this township when the cost of building these bridges is found. The board will send for Curtis Hill, state highway engineer, to come to this township and go over the bridges and give an estimate of what it would cost for this improvement.

It is hoped that this board will push this matter, as it would mean a great deal for Polk.

The directors at their meeting also decided to begin work on the farmers' short course, and Secretary Paul Sisson was instructed to write to the university authorities and arrange for a time and meeting and the lectures to be given at this course. The short course held in Maryville last year was a great success, and the one this year will be bigger and greater.

The board members present at the meeting Saturday was J. F. Roelofson, F. P. Robinson, W. O. Garrett, W. M. Oakerson, F. C. Conrad, Lawrence Ogden and Paul Sisson.

HORSE DISEASE STILL HERE.

I. W. Nixon Lost Good Work Horse, as Did Also Miles Nicholas.

It seems that the horse disease is still in Nodaway county, as I. W. Nixon of this city reported Monday that he lost a good work horse Saturday from the strange disease that has been in Nodaway county. M. A. Nicholas is also another one that has lost two horses within the past few days. There are a few other cases of horse sickness over the county.

Preventive Medicine.

Typhoid fever is an infectious disease caused by the typhoid bacillus which, entering the body in food stuff, passes through the stomach into the intestines. Here it grows and, when an opportunity presents itself, passes through the intestinal wall into the blood stream by which it is carried to all parts of the body. In this way, the entire body of the typhoid patient is teeming with typhoid germs. All of the excreta, such as saliva, vomitus, urine, and feces contain typhoid germs.

This infected excreta is the means for carrying the typhoid germs from the patient to the outside world. In the excreta typhoid germs live from a few days to several months. Freezing retards their growth but does not kill them. Sunlight kills the germ only when the germs are directly exposed to the light. In the dried excreta, germs may live from one to two months. Owing to the resistance of germs in excreta to cold and dryness, the excreta becomes a menace to the family of the patient, to the neighbors, and to the community.

postoffice was too "dinky," so he erected a postoffice building, but the postmaster and Younger "fell out" and the postmaster never moved to its new quarters.

While pursuing his activities in Elmo, Younger also gave attention to nearby towns. The town of Blanchard, on the Iowa line, lost its hotel by fire. Younger went up and agreed to build them a new one. His offer seemed fair enough. He asked for a site and a cash bonus and in return would erect a good hotel building and secure a tenant. Younger carried out his part of the contract, erecting a building far ahead of the town, and securing the tenant. Some people in Blanchard occasionally gave rise to the thought that possibly someone up there might have erected the hotel, but the fact remains that nobody did, and that Younger did what no one in Blanchard did, so there you are. The hotel property was deeded to one of Younger's Texas creditors, who is said to have held a claim against him for $5,000.

Younger also extended his operations to Westboro, in Atchison county, Mo., where he erected a row of three cement store buildings at a cost of $2,200. The deserted quarters of the Elmo Improvement and Business association at Atchison also remind one of the time when Younger decided to establish an Atchison branch, an event that was properly treated in the Atchison newspapers much in the same manner as newspapers treat the arrival of a new railroad or a big factory enterprise. A banker in Atchison also holds Younger's note for $8,500, and the banker in turn is holding to the Westboro property, together with some of the property in Elmo in the hope that he ultimately will get a run for his money.

The operations of Younger really ceased about last February. People long before this had begun to wonder. The financier and his wife had been living in the $5,000 house. The wife didn't figure in the operations, although most of the stock of the Elmo Improvement and Business association was in her name. One day someone brought a suit against Younger and the sheriff waited on him.

"I've got an attachment for your stock in the 'Improvement association,'" said the sheriff. "Will you accept service?"

"Accept service," ejaculated Younger. "Here, I'll give you the stock—two shares. That's all I hold." And he extended the stock to the sheriff, laughing softly.

One day last February Mrs. Younger with their adopted baby left Elmo. It was said she was going to Nebraska. Not long after Younger left the city, advising the people in the light plant that he would return shortly. The furnishings of the bungalow were not touched. Even clothing, family pictures and some jewelry were left behind. Elmo hasn't seen Younger from that day.

No one asked him to leave. No one particularly wanted him to leave. Younger was badly in debt, which is no crime, but that was all.

His failure to return, however, resulted in a court proceeding. George W. Walton, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants bank of Elmo, was made receiver for the property. Younger's debts, as far as Walton was able to determine, approximated $25,000.

The news that Younger had gone to Canada and was working as a laborer drifted back several months after his departure.

The creditors are acting game under a trying circumstance, and Younger, it is confidently believed in Nodaway county, is merely waiting for an opportunity to spring on new worlds of conquest in the regions of the north.

But what became of all the money that undoubtedly passed through Younger's hands? Texas? Elmo believes not. The buildings in Elmo are all occupied. The light plant has broken even. The modern bungalow, with its spacious grounds, is as good as the traditional old wheat. The people paid for the cement walks, not Younger.

Five hundred acres, in two tracts, was sold by Younger long ago to efface two items of indebtedness—one for $23,000; the other for $22,000. He received $5,000 in negotiable notes in this bargain. What became of that?

Younger says he started his company with a cash capital of $20,000. He was successful. He dealt in real security—improved real estate.

What became of the money? "It's been my observation," says Receiver Walton, "that a genius never can tell what happened to his money." Joe Younger was a genius.

THE FIRST STEP

Toward a Federated Church Movement in Maryville Was Taken Sunday.

Rev. S. D. Harkness of the First Presbyterian church took the first step Sunday in the federated church movement suggested by the late Rev. Dr. J. S. Ford of the First M. E. church in his last sermon on Sunday morning, September 22, which ended only a few minutes before he was stricken with death.

Rev. Harkness appointed two members from his church who will be members of the executive board. That will bring together the church interests of Maryville in such a manner as to put every church on a higher working basis and make each one more efficient and more able to carry on the work of Christianity.

The movement was an original idea of Dr. Ford, and will, in truth, be a memorial of him. It is not known whether there is another movement in any town in the country, and it is the result of the honest effort of our lamented citizen in devising some plan that would redound to the highest good of Maryville.

The two members appointed by Rev. Harkness for the Presbyterian church are Prof. G. H. Colbert and John D. Richey. The other ministers of the city are heartily in favor of the movement, and will soon make known their appointments. The official board of the First M. E. church will hold a meeting Monday evening and will appoint two of its members to be members of this executive board for the federation.

Does the word reputation mean anything to you? Stop and think and figure and you will know why the Malleable range has the reputation of being not only the best but the least expensive. Let the man from the factory show you this week at Barbour's South Side Hardware.

Special

All during this week a special demonstrator direct from the MAJESTIC FACTORY will be glad to show you "ALL ABOUT RANGES"—SHOW YOU why the MAJESTIC is the best range on earth at any price.

COME, IF YOU INTEND TO BUY OR NOT.

EDUCATION lies in KNOWING THINGS—KNOW why the oven of a range is heated—KNOW how the water is heated—HOW the top is heated—WHY the MAJESTIC uses so little fuel—KNOW how a range is made inside and outside. This education may serve you in the future. DON'T OVERLOOK a chance to KNOW THINGS shown by one who knows. COME.

Which Shall It Be?

Do you intend to continue laboring, burning valuable fuel and destroying high priced food with that old worn-out cook stove?

You know that old stove eats up a lot of fuel each year.

You know you have trouble in getting it to bake just right, in fact, spoil a batch of bread every once in a while—you know it costs considerable for yearly repairs.

Stop and think and figure.

Wouldn't it pay you to buy a good range—a range with a reputation—

The Great Majestic Malleable and Charcoal Iron Range

You make no mistake in buying the GREAT MAJESTIC—it's the range with THE REPUTATION—ask your neighbors. Then, too, it's made just right and of the right kind of material—MALLEABLE AND CHARCOAL IRON—riveted together practically air tight—lined with pure asbestos board—parts being malleable can't break—has a movable reservoir and an oven that don't warp—that's why the MAJESTIC uses so little fuel, bakes just right every day in the year (browns bread just right all over without turning), heats fifteen gallons of water while breakfast is cooking—properly handled lasts a lifetime, and costs practically nothing for repairs.

Don't buy the range you expect to last a lifetime—"unsight unseen;" you'll be sure to be disappointed. Come to our store during demonstration week, see the GREAT MAJESTIC—have its many exclusive features explained—find out why the MAJESTIC is 300 per cent stronger than other ranges where most ranges are weakest.

WISE PROVISION OF NATURE

Sensitive Whiskers of the Feline Tribe Serve as Eyes for Guidance of Their Owners.

We are apt to think that the cat's ability to see in the dark is due entirely to its eyes, but competent authority assures us that the feline's power in this respect is due almost as much to its "whiskers." These delicate hairs that project from the muzzle of the cat family are wonderful mechanisms. Each one grows from a follicle or gland, nerved to the utmost sensibility. Its slightest contact with any obstacle is instantly felt by the animal, though the hair itself may be tough and insensible. The exaggerated whiskers on the muzzle often project to such a distance that from point to point they indicate the exact width of the body of the beast. Consider the lion stalking through the jungle at night in search of prey, when the least stir of a twig gives alarm. The lion's whiskers indicate through the nicest nerves, any object that may be in his path. A touch stops him short before pushing through some close thicket, where the rustling leaves and boughs would betray his presence. Wherever his head may be thrust without a warning from the vibrissae there his body may pass noiselessly. It is the aid given him by his whiskers, in connection with the soft cushions of his feet, that enables him to proceed as silently as the snake.—Harper's Weekly.

BETTER THAN DOCTORS' BILLS

French Actress Lets the World Into a Little Secret That Is of Some Interest.

For keeping slender and supple a simple home treatment—costing nothing—is gladly presented herewith. It comes straight from a French actress who, though no longer in her first youth, is noted for her lithe and lovely figure.

On waking, the lady makes it a practice to drink a cup of chocolate and read the morning paper in bed. Directly she has absorbed the contents of both she tears the newspaper into tiny bits and scatters them over the floor. Then, before dressing, she trips lightly about the room picking up the pieces one at a time, bending and recovering herself for each scrap. The gymnastic is perfect for "lines." Humming a cheerful tune the while beguiles the time and opens the lungs. Just before going to bed at night she successively edifies and beautifies herself after the same manner with the evening paper. This simple procedure imparts sprightliness and charm—to mind as well as shape.

Mrs. A. S. Watson of Pickering was a Maryville visitor Monday.

I prefer always to learn from the author himself how he did think, than to hear from another how he ought to have thought.

How often the cursory reading of a book, which irresistibly carries one with it, exercised the greatest influence on a man's whole life, and produced at once a decisive effect, which neither a second perusal nor earnest reflection can either strengthen or modify.

I turn back toward the beloved ancients who still constantly, like distant blue mountains, distinct in their outlines and masses, but indiscernible in their parts and internal relations, bound the horizon of my intellectual wishes.

Always fortunate is that epoch in a literature when the great works of the past again rise up as if thawed, and come into notice, because they then produce a perfectly fresh effect.—Goethe.

Swatting the Fly in Korea.

Flies are the staple produce of all parts of Cho-sen and make life simply miserable for the Japanese residing there. Flies are also well known to be mediums for the spread of epidemics. Last year the authorities of Cholla-do offered to buy flies, and encouraged by their success they will repeat the experiment this year. Last year the police was asked to take the trouble of buying flies with money supplied by philanthropic contributors, and 4.68 koku (1 koku is equal to 5.13 bushels) of flies were bought from May 26 to December 2 for 212.97 yen. This year 5.68 koku have already been bought for 268 yen at 3 to 4 sen a go. Local taxes were appropriated for a portion of the expense required.

The flies are burned on being purchased. Flies are valued at 3 sen a head on the mainland, but flies have never been known to exist in such immense masses before as to acquire monetary value.—Japan Weekly Mail.

Real Mailed Fist.

A steel arm which had belonged to the Sire of Mittelhausen has just been acquired by the Rohan museum at Strassburg.

The gallant warrior lost an arm in battle, and a clever mechanic devised another for him, which had truly wonderful functions. It could be folded to an angle of 90 degrees and be extended again by pressing a button at the wrist.

The fingers of the hand were each movable, the thumb being independent of the others.—Pall Mall Gazette.

"Why doesn't that young man ever come into the parlor?"
"Oh, I don't know."
"Isn't he a candidate for your hand?"
"Yes; but he seems to prefer a front porch campaign."

Sam Thought He Had Combination, but Relief for Mandy Was Not in Sight.

A lazy dandy who let his wife take in washing without demur had a dream one night, and a polly dream at that. He borrowed money from her to play the combination, and before he left home he stated his conviction. "Mandy," he said, "Ah's g' in' up town to play dis combine, what am sho' to come out. When you see me comin' home in a hack yo' break up yo' washtubs." The "combine" didn't come out, and Sam, in great dejection, acquired a lot of gin. Then he was messed up a bit by a dray, and some other darkies hired a hack to take him home. Sam was nearly out, and was breathing heavily when the hack turned a familiar corner, and his wife was standing in the door. With his last ounce of energy he stuck his head out of the window and yelled: "Mandy, spare dem tubs!"

Strategy of a Wasp.

A mud wasp was seen to alight within an inch or two of a spider's nest on the side opposite the opening, says an exchange. Creeping around toward the entrance to the nest, the wasp stopped a little short of it and for a moment remained perfectly quiet. Then, reaching out one of its antennae, he wriggled it before the opening. A moment later he withdrew the "feeler." This overture had the desired effect, inasmuch as the head of the household, a big spider, came out to see what was wrong and to set it to rights.

No sooner had the spider emerged to that point at which it was at the worst disadvantage than the wasp, with a quick movement, thrust its sting into the body of its foe, killing it easily and almost instantly.

The experiment was repeated by the wasp, and when there was no response from the inside he evidently became satisfied that he held the fort. At all events, he proceeded to enter the nest and slaughter the young spiders, which were lugged off one at a time.

Wilkes Land Now Defined.

The existence of Wilkes' land has always been an open question and in many of the geographical works reference to it has been omitted or at least questioned. One of the results of the Mawson expedition to the south polar regions has been to settle this matter beyond all doubt. Two parties were landed on this questioned land, one about 1,200 miles north from the other. These parties, and a third one, which was landed on Macquerie's island, will be relieved during the next southern summer, and upon their arrival there will be some valuable and authentic information about the land which has been the subject of discussion for 75 years.

The Proof That Maryville Readers Cannot Deny.

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills cure permanently.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test. Miss Harriett McClurg, 405 E. Thompson St., Maryville, Mo., says: "I gave a public statement in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills in September, 1908. Since then I have had occasional attacks of kidney complaint and I have always used Doan's Kidney Pills successfully at such times. I recommend them whenever an opportunity is given me. I was troubled with pain and weakness in my back and hips and could hardly get about. Doan's Kidney Pills corrected these troubles immediately and after using them, I felt better in every way."

Maryville Merchants' Sixth Sale Day Wed. October 2

THE stores are all ready for their Fall and Winter trade. The new goods are just in. They are offering the cream of their stock at prices that will attract everyone. There is not a merchant who advertises on this page who is trying to unload his season goods.

The reason that these prices are made is that by all going together the merchants have reduced the selling cost to a minimum, and an even greater reason is that the merchants have decided that on this one day they will share their profits with their customers, that they are willing to sell twice the amount of goods for half the profit.

We believe that an investigation will convince you that they are better goods offered for this day will than can be found anywhere else in Northwest Missouri.

Commercial Uses Have Nearly Extirminated the Tiniest of Feathered Creatures.

Our continent has a monopoly of humming birds, the gems of the feathered creation. Of these there are said to be as many as four hundred species, most of which confine themselves to the tropical regions.

Only eighteen varieties live farther north than Mexico. It is generally thought that humming birds live upon honey. This, however, is a mistake. They do obtain and devour honey, it is true, but most of their food consists of the small insects which inhabit certain flowers.

Humming birds are so small that when they are captured for commercial purposes it is impossible to use even the smallest shot for fear of injuring their skins. They are therefore stunned with a drop of water from a blowgun or syringe and fall into a net, when they are quickly poisoned.

Humming birds vary in size from those half as large as a sparrow to those about the size of a bee. Their flight is so swift that they can be well seen only when poised above a flower. The little creatures bid fair to be exterminated on account of the senseless and cruel fashion of using them as trimming for women's hats.—Ave Maria.

Sweet Perquisite.

Candy is a perquisite of theater ushers seldom taken into account. After a Saturday matinee the enterprising usher can secure enough bonbons and chocolates to last a week. The more absorbing the play the larger the supply. At an interesting climax the emotional matinee girl forgets her candy box and lets it slide to the floor with several pieces sticking in the corners. Immediately after the performance all enterprising ushers search the house for discarded sweets.

A Mark of Devotion.

"The Grimsbys are devoted to their family interests, aren't they?" "Yes, indeed. Why, when they secured a prize cock, the eldest son married her to keep her in the family."

Massenet a Twenty-first Child.

If the seventh child of a family is credited, as it not uncommonly is, with certain mystical gifts, it would seem to follow that a twenty-first child should be possessed of some extraordinary talent. However that may be, Massenet, who had twenty brothers and sisters to precede him, very early developed pronounced musical tastes, and at the age of nine he played a Beethoven sonata for an examination, through which he came successfully.

TAX MAN BUSY IN ILLINOIS

Bodies of Four Found Burned in Ruins of Home.

HOUSE WAS FIRED TO HIDE CRIME

Investigation Following Cutting of Telephone Line Leads to Discovery of Murders—Motive Probably Robbery.

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 30.—Discovery of the charred bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pfanschmidt, their daughter Marie, aged 16 and Miss Emma Kaempfen, a 21-year-old school teacher, at the Pfanschmidt home south of Quincy, leads the police to think the four were murdered. Between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning neighbors discovered the Pfanschmidt farm residence on fire. When they reached the scene, the house was reduced to ashes, all contents were destroyed and the four charred skeletons of Pfanschmidt, wife, daughter and the teacher were found. The teacher had boarded with the family.

Investigation showed that the only stove on the premises was in a small building distant from the house where the skeletons were found. Fresh buggy tracks were discovered leading from the residence and the authorities say the murderer or murderers, after leaving the four and then igniting the house to cover the crime, fled.

Ray C. Pfanschmidt, the only survivor of the family, was away from home at the time.

Officials Are Puzzled.

The neighbors who discovered the fire suspected foul play and immediately summoned the sheriff and coroner of Adams county also the chief of police of Quincy. These officials are baffled. Indications are that the quadruple murder was committed in the night and the burning of the dwelling was to conceal the crime.

Near neighbors say none of the family was seen for two days, and it was observed that mail left in the letter box by the rural mail carrier had not been disturbed. A load of oats which Pfanschmidt had fixed to haul to town was standing in the yard.

Miss Kaempfen, who graduated last year from the Quincy high school, had made it an invariable rule to come to the city and spend Saturday and Sunday with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kaempfen.

Victims Well-to-Do.

Her absence alarmed her parents and all day they tried to get in communication by long distance telephone with the Pfanschmidt residence, but were unsuccessful. At an examination of the bodies held here, it was found Miss Kaempfen's head had been crushed with some blunt instrument.

Mr. and Mrs. Pfanschmidt were born in this vicinity and had lived here all of their lives. Each was well fixed financially, independent of the other. Pfanschmidt had recently amassed a large sum of money from the sale of horses and it is thought persons knowing of the sale slew him with intent of robbery.

HANNIBAL ROAD CLUB IS ACTIVE

Auto Owners Hope to Get Members Within Radius of 100 Miles.

Hannibal, Mo., Sept. 30.—A movement for better roads in western Illinois and northeast Missouri is spreading rapidly to get hundreds of car owners in this part of the country to join the Hannibal Auto association. Its aim is to better the road conditions in this part of the state. The movement was launched here a few days ago and it is likely that the club will decide to open its membership to owners of machines within a radius of 100 miles of this city.

The club plans to do much more for good roads. An official marker has been adopted by the club and it will be used on all roads leading here within a radius of 50 miles.

Sneed Gets Venue Change.

Amarillo, Tex., Sept. 30.—Counsel for John Beal Sneed won the second battle with the prosecution for the life of the slayer of Al G. Boyce, Jr., when Judge J. N. Browning ordered a change of venue to Wilbarger county. A change of venue in the case against Beach B. Epling, charged jointly with Sneed in encompassing the death of Boyce, was ordered to Hall county.

Motor Car Bandits Active.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Four restaurants were raided in succession and patrons and proprietors held up at pistol point by a band of motor car bandits. The robberies ended a night's campaign in Indiana, where a score of people were robbed, one of $500. Assistant Chief of Police Schuetter detailed a squad of motor cycle policemen to attempt to run down the gang.

Season's First Football Fatality.

St. Joseph, Sept. 30.—The football game between the St. Joseph and Oregon, Mo., high school teams was stopped in the last quarter when Hugo Gell, captain for Oregon, was thrown on his head and suffered concussion of the brain and paralysis of his left side. He was carried off the field unconscious and physicians say he cannot live.

TIME TO CHANGE THE SEASON

TWO ARMY AVIATORS KILLED

TEST FLIGHT ENDS IN TRAGIC ACCIDENT.

College Park, Md., Field the Scene of Second Fatal Aeroplane Wreck.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Two more lives were sacrificed to aviation at the United States army aviation field, College Park, Md., near here, when an army aeroplane fell 35 feet to the ground, killing Corporal Frank S. Scott, and so dangerously injured Second Lieut. Lewis C. Rockwell that he died a few hours later.

Hundreds of persons, including fellow army officers attached to the aviation school, breathlessly witnessed the tragic accident.

Lieut. Rockwell had started up with Corporal Scott as a passenger to make a test flight in his trial for a military aviator's license. They had been in the air about eight minutes, ascending to a height of 500 feet, then gliding down had got about 35 feet from the ground. At this point the aviator turned the machine upward again and something went wrong. Instantly the aeroplane buckled and crashed to the ground, being reduced to a heap of wreckage.

Lieut. Rockwell was the fourth commissioned army officer to meet death in an aviation accident. The first was Lieut. Thomas E. Selfridge, killed while flying with Orville Wright, who had his leg broken in the fall.

The second was Lieut. Kelly, whose machine got beyond control at San Antonio, Tex., May 10, 1911. The third was Lieut. Leighton W. Hazlehurst, who, with his instructor was killed on the same field where Lieut. Rockwell and Corporal Scott fell.

WILL DISCUSS ROAD BUILDING

American Road Congress at Atlantic City Will Devote Entire Week to Better Highways.

Atlantic City, Sept. 30.—The American road congress opened here today, to continue till October 5, inclusive. It is intended at this congress to take up the subject of highway building more thoroughly than has ever been done before in this country. From the attitude of the delegates and visitors it is apparent that they are all enthusiasts, determined to give to the cause of public roads the greatest impetus it has yet received.

One of the chief organizations represented at the congress is the American Bar association. The delegates from this association are Frederick E. Vandham of Albany, N. Y.; William A. Schier of Boston and Henry D. Estabrook of New York City. The association, through these delegates, will have charge of the legislative section of the congress. Another important feature will be the conference of the leading educational institutions of the country under the auspices of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education. One of the great problems that confronts the congress is the insufficient supply of engineers to carry on the work of public road building.

The congress is presided over by Logan Waller Page, director of the United States office of public roads, who in welcoming the delegates and visitors made an impressive speech.

Schuyler County Out of Debt.

Lancaster, Mo., Sept. 30.—Schuyler county is out of debt. At the Old Settlers' reunion the $180,000 worth of Missouri, Iowa & Nebraska railroad bonds was burned as the crowd cheered. The bonds were issued to carry the county's debts. George W. Melvin, 91 years old, ignited the certificates. For 40 years the county had been in debt. Judge N. M. Shelton of Macon delivered the address to the old settlers.

Students Into Politics.

Wichita, Kan., Sept. 30.—Students of Fairmount college formed two political clubs, one to support Woodrow Wilson, the other Theodore Roosevelt. The Wilson supporters took possession of the chapel meeting and organized a club with 55 members. The Roosevelt supporters held a separate meeting. Most of the members are voters.

BANK ROBBERS IN MISSOURI?

Two More Members of Canadian Gang Sought in Kansas City.

BOTH ESCAPED ST. LOUIS RAID

Finder of Account Book, With Names and Addresses, Causes Vigorous Search to Be Made in Four Cities.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—An account book with records of routes, expenditures and many names and addresses, which the police are keeping secret, has just been found by detectives here and is believed to contain clues to the safe blowers who robbed the Bank of Montreal in New Westminster, British Columbia, of $272,000, and spent several weeks in Chicago, negotiating under the noses of the police for the disposal of the Canadian bills.

Operatives of private detective agencies and police are now seeking members of the gang in Omaha, Minneapolis and Aberdeen, S. D., and Kansas City.

Stacey Only an Agent.

James W. Stacey, arrested on identification by his wife, is not a member of the gang that robbed the bank, but an agent for them, according to James Sidas, the Greek saloon keeper in whose place Lieut. Burns was injured in an attempt to arrest the safe-blowers.

Sidas told of his attempts to dispose of $140,000 of the stolen bills.

A man known to the saloon keeper as "Big Charlie" conducted the negotiations for the exchange of the stolen money. Sidas says he was offered a 15 per cent commission for changing the bills. An attempt to change the bills in a West Side bank aroused suspicion and Sidas withdrew from the transaction in fear that he would get into trouble, he said.

Two Robbers Escaped.

St. Louis, Sept. 30.—That two other men implicated in the robbery of the New Westminster bank in Canada were in St. Louis when James W. Stacey was arrested here last week was the statement made by Asher Rosseter, superintendent of a private detective agency. The men fled south and west, Rosseter says, and he has their descriptions.

Lulu Wilson, the girl through whom Stacey was arrested, is hiding in St. Louis, although her whereabouts are known to the local police. In telling the police her story of the attempt by Police Lieut. Burns of Chicago to arrest the two men in a cafe when she was holding them in conversation, she says that, after Lieut. Burns had been beaten into insensibility, Stacey's last words to her were: "I'll get you yet, Lu!"

Superintendent Rosseter says the robbers have $170,000 of the stolen money hidden in Chicago or vicinity. Stacey's lawyer says he will fight extradition.

FRAUD STOPS LAND VALUATION

Oklahoma Politicians Got Inside Information on Choice Chotaw Coal Locations.

Muskogee, Ok., Sept. 30.—Following a story that certain politicians and capitalists were getting inside advance information of the appraisal of the $500,000 acres of segregated coal land of the Choctaw nation and that the appraisal is too low, orders have been received from the department of the interior rejecting the partly completed appraisal and a new one ordered made.

The lands appraised in Haskell and Leflore counties, the richest in the segregation, caused the order.

Rewards for McKnelly Slayer.

Topeka, Sept. 30.—Kansas will pay $250 for the arrest and conviction of the murderers of Theodore McKnelly, wife and daughter, at Wellington September 25. Summer county authorities have offered this reward and asked the governor to increase it. The son has been arrested as a suspect.

POLICE FOUGHT WITH PARADERS

Riot Results From Attempt to Stop
I. W. W. Demonstration.

DISTURBANCE WAS UNEXPECTED

Lawrence, Mass., Textile Workers,
Marching Without Permit, Told
to Stop, Beat Officers With Their Own Clubs.

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 30.—Police and paraders fought with knives and clubs here prior to a demonstration by members of the Industrial Workers of the World. Two policemen were stabbed, a number of demonstrators were clubbed and an I. W. W. leader was captured after a hard fight and then freed. Only two arrests were made. One shot was fired from the ranks of the paraders.

The fight began when the police tried to stop an informal parade of textile operatives preceding a demonstration in honor of Anna Lopizzo and John Dany, who were killed in last winter's strike riots.

Met Visitors at Depot.

The clash was quite unexpected. More than 20,000 operatives met at the railroad station to welcome 700 members of the Industrial Workers of the World who had come from Boston to participate in a parade to the graves of Anna Lopizzo and John Dany.

After the visitors had detained, an impromptu parade started, turning finally into Essex street, the main business thoroughfare of the city.

The parade was informal and no application had been made for a parade permit. The police, notified that the operatives were marching, attempted to end the demonstration. A squad of 25 officers was sent to Essex and Lawrence streets, where they threw a line across Essex street and awaited the arrival of the procession.

Argued With Police.

When the head of the parade reached the line of officers it halted and an argument began. The police notified the marchers that they must disperse, because they had no permit. Those in the front rank were endeavoring to fall back, when suddenly the marchers in the rear pressed forward, and the mill workers tried to pass the police.

They struck right and left at the officers, who responded by swinging their clubs. Many paraders were knocked bleeding to the ground. In some instances the marchers robbed the officers of their clubs and began to beat them back.

Made Officers Retreat.

The police were forced to retreat into Lawrence street. It was there that Carte Tresca, an editor, who is an organizer for the I. W. W., was seized by officers, who started with him toward the police station nearby. Angered by the arrest of their leader, the crowd made a rush for the officers. The police appeared to be fighting to hold the prisoner, but a moment or two later Tresca was at liberty. Later the crowd was driven through Lawrence street and on to the common, where the parade dispersed.

BLEW UP POLICE PATROL MOTOR

Los Angeles Prisoner Wrecked Vehicle and Caused One Death Trying to Escape.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 30.—A prisoner on the way to jail blew up a police motor patrol downtown by igniting the gasoline with a match. The vehicle was wrecked and one prisoner was burned to death.

Two others, with Patrolman Louis Canto, were injured dangerously.

Canto, with his clothing aflame, started in pursuit of the man who started the fire and another prisoner, but was stopped by officers who stripped his flaming clothing from his body. The fugitives escaped. The patrol was being driven back to central station. Gasoline fumes were released when the fuel tank was opened for repairs.

OHIO RIVER BOAT LINES MERGE

Three Million Dollar Corporation Takes Over Many Small Packet Companies.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 30.—A $3,000,000 steamboat line became a reality when John W. Hubbard of the Hubbard-Baker company and associates took over several packet companies doing business on the Ohio river between here and Cincinnati and New Orleans.

New boats will be built and better service is promised. Shippers on all river routes. Record speed was made by the organizers of the new company in purchasing the smaller lines and consolidating them; a half score companies being taken over in one afternoon.

Police Car Kills a Man.

Salt Lake City, Sept. 30.—In its haste to reach the D. & R. G. railroad yards, where Robert Johnson, 9 years old, had been crushed by a car, a police motor killed Finley Martin. He was traveling from Sioux City, Ia., to California. The car fractured the skull of James H. Scanlan, Jr., of Roxbury, Mass.

WILLIAM MARCONI.

TO BUILD BRIDGE IN TWO DAYS

PLAN TO LAY PONTOON IN RECORD TIME.

Leavenworth Soldiers Will Span Missouri River With Structure 900 Feet Long.

Leavenworth, Kan., Sept. 28.—Company E of the second battalion of engineers will undertake a big job Monday in building a pontoon bridge across the Missouri river. It is hoped to complete the bridge in two days.

Material is now being hauled to the west approach and Monday and Tuesday the bridge will be constructed. Company E, which is to build the bridge, is commanded by Capt. T. H. Dillon, an expert at bridge building.

The bridge when completed will be 900 feet in length. It is no little undertaking to span the "Big Muddy," due to its swift current, but to overcome this, triple anchors will be sunk into the bottom of the river to hold the pontoons.

The last time an attempt was made to build a bridge across the Missouri was in 1903. At that time the engineer troops experienced considerable difficulty in getting anchors which would hold the pontoons.

When the structure is completed the authorities at the military prison will use it for the purpose of hauling some valuable timber from the east side of the river. All of the engineer material at the post will be used in the construction of the bridge by company E. It will be built across the river to the east of the prison gardens. It will be a sight worth seeing and will undoubtedly draw many visitors.

ESCAPED FROM SINKING VESSEL

Sixteen Men Rescued From Lake Superior After Being Tossed About in Small Boats.

Marquette, Mich., Sept. 28.—Capt. Henry Richardson and his crew of 16 men narrowly escaped death when the steamer Culligan sank in Lake Superior, 20 miles west of Grand Island. The sailors were tossed about for several hours in small boats until rescued by the fishing tug Columbia. The Culligan, laden with ore, was 20 miles from shore when it sprung a leak and began to go down by the head. Those on board took to the small boats. The waves ran so high that the sailors had difficulty in keeping afloat. An attempt was made to tow towards Grand Island, but no "roadway" could be made. After the men had become exhausted the fishing tug Columbia came up and took all aboard.

TO BAR MISSOURI PROGRESSIVES

Injunction Proceedings Being Prepared to Keep Names Off Official Ballot.

Jefferson City, Sept. 28.—It is stated here by a Republican that B. J. Schurmacher, a St. Louis attorney acting for the Republican state committee, has prepared injunction proceedings to prevent the secretary of State, Cornelius Beach, from placing the Progressive state ticket on the ballot. The application is in the hands of a local attorney representing Mr. Schurmacher, who will file it in the Cole county court Monday, according to the same informant.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 28.—The Kansas City, Clay County & St. Joseph & Hway company bought a site at the corner of Eighth and Angelique streets upon which it will erect a passenger and freight station. A lease also has been entered into for a building opposite the custom house, in which will be located the electric line's city ticket office.

One Dead in Mine Explosion.

McAlester, Ok., Sept. 28.—An explosion in the Bolen-Darnell coal company's mine at Craig killed Antonio Matza and injured Frank Spanovally, both miners. A crew from the mine rescue station was sent from here. The explosion was caused by a windy shot. The mine is damaged slightly.

Fashion's Fancies

Persian embroideries, with brocade and a good deal of silver, will be used in evening models.

Fashion favors small ribbon ruffles and bows of plaid edged ribbons for millinery purposes.

At the seaside a refer of ratine or loosely cut ivory tweed is desirable to throw on over light dresses.

White dresses for afternoon and evening are charming with bright green, red and amber trimmings.

The new Medici collars, with extended ruffs in the back, are likely to be warmly welcomed this fall.

In the finer gowns two-toned mirror velvet appears, usually a black stripe on blue, green, gold, purple or red.

Some of the new dresses are made of two-toned corduroy, combined with silk charmeuse or chiffon in plain color.

Old Riga Being Modernized.

The ancient city of Riga, on the river Dwina, near the Baltic sea, is undergoing a wonderful change. The place was founded in 1201 by the Knights of the Sword, a German order instituted to convert the Letts and Esthonians. It became in time a fortress of considerable strength. It did not lose the appearance of a medieval town until 1857, when its masonry walls were torn down. When Napoleon invaded Russia more than a century ago the governor of Riga burned two thousand houses. Riga is now being converted into a modern industrial city. The centuries-old moat has been turned into a picturesque canal and its banks have been planted with ornamental trees and shrubs to provide a popular promenade. The old, narrow winding streets of the inner town are being widened and straightened. The suburban quarter, for so long a collection of wooden huts, is being built over into large apartment houses. Several squares and public gardens and buildings are being constructed. One of the squares is used as a military parade ground. On it is the Russian cathedral, the city museum and a school supported by the chamber of commerce.—New York World.

QUEBEC A CITY OF THE PAST

Development of Canadian Dominion Goes Forward, but She Has Little Part in It.

Quebec herself rather endures being quaint than enjoys it, for in this day of Canadian development she has dreamed of the future after the fashion of those insistent towns further to the west. "It has not been pleasant for her," says Edward Hungerford in Harper's Weekly, "to drop from second place in Canadian commercial importance to fourth or fifth. She has had to sit back and see such cities as Winnipeg, for instance, increase from an Indian trading place to a metropolitan center two or three times her size, while her own wharves rot. It is a matter of keen humiliation to the town every time a big ocean liner goes sailing up the river to Montreal—her river, if you are to give ear to the protests of her citizens whom you meet along the Terrace of a late afternoon—without halting at her wharves, perhaps without even a respectful salute to the town, which has been known these many years as the Gibraltar of North America."

Dig or Die!

No matter what industrial, commercial or social problem is to be solved, it always takes us back to agriculture. Human life begins with an immediate demand for food and clothing, and these in their primary state take us to the farmer. Every article of food, with the single exception of the fishes in the waters, is the product of the soil, as are the various substances from which our clothes are made. Thus human life is directly dependent on the products of the soil, and no considerable population could exist for a day without the daily necessities of life derived from the cultivation of the land. As food and clothing must come from the farm, it is plain that the American people have got to go back to the land or starve. If they will not themselves plow and dig, they will have to employ foreign labor to do it.—New Orleans Picayune.

How Rain Bore Holes.

"When rain falls it does not actually soak into the earth, but bores its way in, forming tiny tubes," says an interesting article in Harper's Weekly. "These tubes are so small that it would be impossible to insert a hair in one of them without bursting its walls. Sometimes the tubes are bored down to a depth of four or five feet. When the surface dries, the water evaporates from the tubes, just as it would from a pipe. If the tube is twisted it takes longer for the water to evaporate. If one takes a rake and stirs the ground after each rain, he breaks the tops of the tubes, and the water will stand in them for months. In this way the farmers of the west, on the semi-arid lands, store the rainfall one year, and raise a crop of wheat every other year—there being sufficient water in two years, but not enough in one, to raise a crop."

She Could Not Distinguish.

"Who are those people over at the little table?" asked old Mrs. Knowall, who was having her first meal at a large suburban boarding house.

"Mr. and Mrs. Brown and their children," she was informed.

"But there are two ladies there, one standing up and waiting on the children and one sitting down," remarked Mrs. Knowall.

"Oh, one is the child's nurse."

"Which one is the nurse?" she inquired eagerly, "the one sitting down or the one standing up?"

Spiteful.

Kate—Mrs. Wops boasts that she made her husband.

Meg—Anybody could tell that, to look at the way the poor man is frayed at the edges.

Which She Frequently Uses.

She—Say what you like about marriage; it gives a woman a chance.

He—Yes, a fighting chance.

MOTOR BANDITS GOT BIG HAUL

Five Men Took Over $30,000 From Indiana Milling Company.

FLED WITH POSSE IN PURSUIT

In High Power Car Robbers Sped
Across State at Record Breaking Speed—Sheriff's Men in Slower Machines.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Five bandits driving a large high powered motor car committed a daring robbery at the office of the Keilman Milling company at Dyer, Ind., and then terrorized the entire Calumet region as they sped across the state at the rate of 50 miles an hour, pursued by 10 machines filled with police.

Two of the robbers lured Leonard Keilman, aged president of the company, to the rear of the grain elevator and held him while the others robbed the safe. More than $30,000 was stolen.

Overpowered Aged President.

The bandits drove up to the company's office at noon. Keilman, who is 80 years old, was alone in the office. Power was kept on when the motor car stopped and the men entered the building on the pretext of purchasing some grain and led Keilman to the rear of the elevator. Then they retained him with revolver threats.

After taking all valuables they could find the men returned to the car. Before the aged president recovered and gave the alarm the men were many miles away.

In the meantime, however, persons in the village who saw the speeding car and one of the occupants holding a revolver, had telephoned the police. As soon as Sheriff Grant was informed of the robbery he dispatched ten motor posses in pursuit.

Terrorized Countrymen.

Meanwhile, the bandit car, running more than 50 miles an hour, sped toward Valparaiso with the machines of the police far in the rear. At various points along the road farmers reported the passing of the car and the police motors separated and took short cuts across country. By night, however, several of the cars started back, but others kept the chase.

At one point a constable tried to stop the bandits and arrest them for speeding, but more speed was put on and a bullet whizzed in his direction. Where it was possible the robbers skirted villages, and when it was necessary to pass through a thickly settled section they displayed their revolvers to awe farmers who might attempt to stop them. It was said late in the night that they had turned the car south and were making greater speed.

BACK TO PRIMITIVE METHODS

Kansas Who Lost Horses, Makes
Yokes and Does Plowing
With Ox Team.

Topeka, Sept. 28.—Peter Jobes, a Rush county farmer, lost almost all his horses from the plague just when he started plowing his wheat fields. He had 600 acres of ground yet to be plowed. He had raised a big wheat crop and spent part of his money for a gas tractor engine and set it to work. Then he saw that the field would not be done in time so he picked four 3-year-old steers. He cut down a tree, made two yokes and the bows from a couple of hedge saplings. The four steers were yoked and the next morning hitched to a gang plow and put to work. The field has been plowed and now the four steers are used in sowing the grain.

Sneak Thief.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 28.—It has just become known here that three bags containing $11,000 in gold were stolen several days ago from a window in the paying teller's cage of the National Banking company.

The robbery occurred at noon during the absence of some of the clerks in the cage and of the day watchman. It was discovered at the end of the day when an accounting was made of the cash on hand, but the facts have been suppressed till now in the hope of catching the culprit, thus far without results.

TEXTILE STRIKE IS SPREADING

Trouble of Last Winter at Lawrence
Mass., to be Repeated.

ALREADY 12,000 ARE INVOLVED

Mill Owners Preparing to Close Down
—I. W. W. Leaders Say Action is Unauthorized—Haywood Coming to Direct Men.

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 28.—Practically 12,000 textile operatives here are now affected by the great strike inaugurated by the Industrial Workers of the World to show their sympathy for Joseph J. Ettor and Arturo Giovannitti, leaders of that organization, and as a protest against their trial in connection with the killing of Anna Lopizzo during the strike last winter, which is to begin Monday in Salem.

Because it is feared there will be an extension of the strike in the morning mill owners are preparing to close down the plants in event of further walkouts, or if disorders develop. In a comparatively mild degree, Lawrence is experiencing a repetition of the scenes enacted last winter.

Several Injured.

Some of the more eager strikers, in attempting to get workers to leave their machines caused disturbances in several mills. Reports of a number of injuries were received by the police, clubs were flourished to intimidate working operatives and mill machinery at several plants was damaged. A few windows also were broken. The police made only three arrests. These were on charges of assault or destruction of mill property.

Leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World renewed their assertion that the strike was not sanctioned, was unorganized and without a leader.

Beyond Control.

"We are naturally unable to control the people," said William Yates of New Bedford, national secretary of the Textile branch of the Industrial Workers of the World. "They broke away from us completely and left their work against our advice. We hoped they would heed the message sent from jail by Ettor and Giovannitti urging them not to strike. Of course, in event of a majority sentiment in favor of a general strike, the Industrial Workers of the World will give the same support to the movement as it did in the great industrial battle last winter."

Secretary Yates announced that William D. Haywood, who directed the strike here last winter, in its latter stages and who on Boston common, two weeks ago, urged a country-wide strike in protest against the detention in jail of Ettor and Giovannitti, had been asked to come to Lawrence and would hurry East and might arrive in Lawrence Sunday or Monday.

WOULD SEND MORE TROOPS OVER

Madero Asks and is Granted Authority
Permission of United States for Movement.

Mexico City, Sept. 28.—The Mexican congress granted President Madero's request for authority to ask permission of the United States to again transport Mexican troops through American territory. The authority was granted by Washington and troops under Gen. Tracy Aubert, now at Ojinaga, will be transported. Part of the command will be sent over the southern Pacific railroad entering Mexico at Del Rio, and the others will be sent to Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, to cooperate with General Blatquet in command at Sabinsas.

"Down With America."

Berne, Switzerland, Sept. 28.—Screaming "Down with the United States," 500 Italian workmen, on strike in sympathy with Ettor and Giovannitti in prison for the Lawrence, Mass., riots, tried to demolish the American minister's house. Police and soldiers dispersed them after a brief fight. No serious damage was done.

Blame Boys for Wreck.

Fort Smith, Ark., Sept. 28.—Four persons were injured, one seriously, when Iron Mountain passenger train No. 104 was wrecked at Greenwood Junction. The engine turned a somersault after the crew jumped and the combination car was thrown bottom side up. Railway officials declare boys placed bolts on the track to wreck the train.

Blocks a Two-Cent Fare.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 28.—Holding that the Illinois two-cent fare law was confiscatory so far as the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis railroad is concerned, the United States district court here granted a permanent injunction, restraining the state from enforcing the law.

Like Old-Time Campaign.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—A procession, the first in Chicago in years, preceded the opening of the Taft campaign in Illinois. Members of the Hamilton club marched from the clubhouse to the hall, each one carrying a blazing torch.
